

Two Calumet Crashes Kill Supervisor, Girl

Raymond Rusch Was on County Board 10 Years

CHILTON — A 10-year veteran of the Calumet County Board and a rural Hilbert teen-aged girl were killed Monday evening in separate highway accidents in Calumet county.

Dead are: Raymond Rusch, 60, route 4, Chilton, and Cheryl Ann Weber, 15, route 2, Hilbert.

Rusch, the Town of Rantoul chairman, was involved in a collision with a car driven by Wayne A. Miller, 18, route 1, Chilton, at 7:40 p.m. at the intersection of County Trunk E and Irish Road about four miles northeast of Chilton.

The cause of the accident remains under investigation by county traffic police. They said Rusch was apparently driving west on E and Miller north on Irish Road when the crash occurred.

Thrown From Car

Rusch was thrown from the vehicle and was pronounced dead at the scene of multiple fractures and internal injuries, according to County Coroner Leroy Hughes. Police indicated Rusch was struck by the Miller auto after being thrown from his car.

Miller was trapped in the twisted wreckage of his car for 45 minutes. He is in satisfactory condition at Calumet Memorial Hospital with head injuries.

Rusch was chairman of the county board's Protection of Persons and Property Committee, and was owner and operator of Potter Feed Mill in Potter. He was active with the Potter Community Association.

The Weber girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Weber, was a passenger in a car driven by her 16-year-old brother, Allan. She was killed when the auto went out of control on a gravel road and overturned. The accident occurred at 6 p.m. on a town road three miles northeast of Stockbridge. Hughes said the girl was thrown from the car and the vehicle rolled on top of her.

She suffered multiple head, chest and back injuries. Her brother sustained minor lacerations and was not hospitalized.

Tentative Okay Seen in Memphis Garbage Strike

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Negotiators announced tentative agreement today to end the 65-day-old garbage collectors strike that brought Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to Memphis and his death.

Mediator Frank Miles made the announcement but said terms of the settlement would not be disclosed until outlined to the 1,300 striking sanitation workers. The terms, said Undersecretary of Labor James Reynolds, are "honorable and proper under the circumstances."

Reynolds was dispatched to Memphis by President Johnson after King was slain April 4 while in Memphis in support of the strikers, 98 per cent of them Negroes.

Telephone Worker Strike Is 'Inevitable'

Wisconsin Employes Included; Little Immediate Effects Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a miracle can avert a nationwide strike of some 200,000 telephone workers next Thursday, says President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers.

After a seven-hour meeting with the union's executive board Monday, Beirne said:

"The board is in full agreement that the strike appears inevitable at this point and that our position must be to press hard and unceasingly for the substantial general (wage) increase that our members both need and deserve."

Some 8,000 members of another union, the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are already on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and 14,000 members of Beirne's union are respecting the picket lines and refusing to work.

The New Jersey telephone company said supervisory personnel stayed on the job and there was no interruption of service to its 2.2 million customers when the strike began Monday.

Beirne conceded that a strike by his members would also have little immediate impact on most customers, except for long distance calls and other service requiring an operator, because of the highly automated nature of the nation's telephone system.

"The $30 billion computer they call the Bell Telephone System is just about the most

Hanoi Names Pair as Likely Envoys in Talks

President Again Presses Efforts

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson, pressing Hanoi for an early and serious response to Vietnam peace efforts, is also bearing down on military problems in conferences at the U.S. Pacific command post.

Johnson's schedule today centered on a visit to the hilltop headquarters of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, the Pacific commander in chief who will retire in July. The President said he wanted to talk about the military situation in Vietnam with Sharp and his designated successor, Adm. John S. McCain.

The President gave North Vietnam a new peace prod Monday, soon after arriving in Honolulu.

Reviews Efforts

As friends and critics vied for attention with shouts, chants and placards—the friends clearly were more numerous—Johnson reviewed peace efforts in an address from the steps of Iolani Palace, seat of the Hawaiian government. These efforts focus at this stage on finding a mutually acceptable preliminary meeting site.

Declaring "precious time is being lost," Johnson said: "For us, this is not a propaganda exercise. We have sent serious and considered messages aimed at bringing about the earliest possible contact."

"What is needed today is an equally serious reply, reacting to our proposals for neutral sites or offering additional suggestions of neutral capitals where both of us have representatives and communications."

"Lack of Good Will" Several hours after Johnson spoke the official North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan said the United States showed "lack of good will" in turning down two sites Hanoi has proposed, Warsaw and Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

A Nhan Dan article broadcast from Hanoi flung back in the President's face his offer in the past to send U.S. negotiators anywhere at any time for talks.

"This statement is big-sounding and allows no misunderstanding," the article said. "Yet, after making many such statements the Johnson administration now changes tune."

Quints Reported Doing Fine in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Quintuplets—three boys and two girls—born Saturday to an Iranian farmer and his 35-year-old wife were "doing fine" today in a town accessible only by mule, Tehran newspapers reported.

The babies were reported to have been delivered by a midwife in Lalan, a village near Kabil in a mountainous region near the Soviet border. A mule team of health officials and newsmen was on its way to Lalan.

The newspaper Ettelaat said the quint's mother Zahra, and her 45-year-old husband, Mohammad, have been married for four years and have two other children.

Russian Space Linkup First Big Step Forward

By BOB HORTON WASHINGTON (AP) — Western space experts believe the latest linkup of two Russian satellites has provided the Soviets with technical knowledge to move forward with two programs: to send men to the moon and to build a manned space station for military purposes.

The next step, expected soon, should be space dockings involving manned ships—a feat accomplished by America's Gemini astronauts as early as March 1966.

Plans Upset

It is believed the Soyuz 1 flight last April was to have been the first Soviet space linkup. But the plans were upset when the spacecraft developed control and parachute problems that killed the cosmonaut pilot, Vladimir M. Komarov.

While the Soyuz ship was being redesigned, the Soviets used the unmanned Cosmos 186 and 188 flights last October to gain their initial docking experience. They duplicated the exercise Monday with Cosmos 212 and 213.

The repeat may have been necessary because of problems which cropped up on the October test. American specialists said the Russian radar on the main satellite (186) lacked the long-range precision of that on the Gemini craft.

They noted that Cosmos 187, originally intended for the docking, was too far off course, necessitating the launching of 188. The latter achieved an orbit just 15 miles behind its space partner.

The Russians said Monday's flight involved "refinement of new systems," which could indicate improved radar.

Gemini pilots, who achieved more than a dozen dockings on four flights, often started out several hundred miles behind their Agena target satellites and friendly welcome to the palm-studded 50th state. Thousands of people saw him as his first organized motorcade in about six months took him more than 15 miles from the airport to a luxurious temporary White House on the Pacific shores.

Twin Paths to Peace

While here, Johnson said, he would discuss what he termed the twins paths to peace with the top military command and,

Johnson said he would talk about "our diplomatic initiative in seeking talks with North Vietnam" and the readiness of allied forces "to meet every challenge on the battlefield of South Vietnam."

Flying to Hawaii with him was Cyrus R. Vance, former deputy secretary of defense who has been assigned as military adviser to participate in any preliminary peace talks with Hanoi.

Park was flying in from Seoul tonight.

Johnson is expected to remain in Hawaii until Thursday. He is living about 10 miles outside the city at the seaside estate of the widow of the late millionaire industrialist Henry J. Kaiser.

Edward Welch, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said after the first Soviet linkup that the United States long has had the capability of docking unmanned satellites, but that this was not necessary because the technique was proved in the Gemini program.

The paths of the Russian satellites involved in the linkups indicate they are preparatory flights for a man-to-the-moon mission. All were on courses ranging between 51.7 degrees north and 51.7 degrees south of the equator—which for Russia's launching purposes is an ideal course for starting for the moon.

The Soviets have said their man-to-the-moon plan involves first assembling a large space station in earth orbit, using it as a launch pad for lunar journeys. This would involve five or six launchings and hookups. If most of these could be achieved with unmanned launchings, the price tag would be considerably cheaper and the risk of life reduced.

Once the base is assembled, a cosmonaut crew would rocket up to it, check it out, refuel, and head for the moon. It could also be a stopover on the way home.

The multi-launch technique is necessary because the Soviets do not have a rocket with the strength of America's Saturn 5 super rocket.

Brute Force The United States plans to use the brute force of the Saturn 5—at least twice as powerful as anything yet flown by the Russians.

Bishop Wycislo Installed at Green Bay

GREEN BAY — In a short, colorful ceremony hallowed by 15 centuries of usage and revitalized by the spirit of Vatican II, Bishop Aloysius J. Wycislo, Polish son of Chicago and the Roman Catholic Church, this morning was installed as the eighth bishop of Green Bay in St. Francis Xavier Cathedral.

Before an assembly of more than 600 priests, religious leaders and laymen, including five archbishops, 20 bishops, archbishops and abbots of ancient monastic orders, Bishop Wycislo received his crozier and throne, traditional symbols of a Christian bishop, from Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, apostolic delegate to the United States.

It was the first formal installation of a reigning bishop in the 80-year-old cathedral in more than 50 years. Although the ceremony was essentially the same as that in which the late Bishop Paul P. Rhode assumed direction of the 100-year-old see on Sept. 29, 1915, a number of modern innovations highlighted the proceedings.

For the first time the ceremony was conducted entirely in English. The presence of Archbishop Raimondi marked the first time an apostolic delegate had been present for the ritual, and the concluding consecrated mass was likewise a new touch.

So was the celebration of the mass from a table altar with the celebrants facing the congregation, although the use of the free-standing altar and the consecration were themselves revivals of long dormant practices.

Top Man Is Experienced In Diplomacy

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam announced two high-level appointments today, arousing speculation in Saigon that they would be Hanoi's representatives at peace talks with the United States.

Hanoi broadcast the announcement that Xuan Thuy had been appointed a government minister and that Tran Quang Huy had been named chairman of the cultural and educational board of the premier's office.

Analysts of North Vietnamese affairs in Saigon, assessing the titles given the two men and their background, speculated that Thuy might head Hanoi's negotiating team and Huy might be its chief spokesman.

Thuy, 55, also known as Nguyen Xuan Thuy, was foreign minister of North Vietnam from 1963 to 1965 and more recently has been a member of the Communist Party central committee secretariat and head of the central committee's foreign relations department.

Thuy has wide diplomatic experience and has made many trips abroad. He was deputy chairman of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Geneva conference on Laos in 1961 and attended the 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist Party that year along with President Ho Chi Minh and Le Duan, first secretary of the North Vietnamese party.

Thuy also has attended meetings of left-wing peace organizations in Peking, Moscow, Cairo, Rangoon and Stockholm.

Since 1956 Thuy has been secretary-general of North Vietnam's Fatherland Front, whose main activity is propaganda for reunification of North and South Vietnam.

Huy, 46, has been deputy director of the central committee's propaganda and education—agitprop—committee, also known as the propaganda indoctrination department, and was an alternate member of the central committee.

He was a member of a North Vietnamese delegation that visited France, Romania and the Soviet Union in September, 1965.

Command to Shoot Looters, Arsonists Issued in Chicago

Mayor Angered by Soft Treatment Of Law Violators in Recent Riots

CHICAGO (AP)—Mayor Richard J. Daley, sharply critical of police performance during recent street disorders, has ordered that in the future arsonists be shot dead and looters maimed or crippled to stop lawlessness.

Mayor Daley

Daley, visibly angry over what he considered soft treatment of law violators, also ordered Monday an investigation "to obtain a careful and comprehensive analysis" of the disorders that started April 5 and claimed 11 lives.

"I was disappointed that there weren't instructions to shoot arsonists," he told a news conference. "An arsonist is a murderer. He should be shot right on the spot."

Owa Decisions
Daley scolded Police Supt. James B. Conlisk Jr. for not issuing clearer orders to the 11,500-man department. The mayor said he learned that officers were supposed to make their own decisions about shooting.

Gen. Richard T. Dunn, the man in charge of 6,900 Illinois National Guard troops called into Chicago's troubled West Side, disagreed with Daley on the police performance. Dunn, a Bloomington lawyer in private life, said what he saw "indicated satisfactory performance" on the part of the police. "I personally saw police bringing looting to a halt in buildings out there."

Col. Walton Goodwin, second in command of the 5,000 Army troops temporarily assigned to Chicago, also praised the performance of police. "From what I observed, Chicago police did a good job during the riots," said Goodwin.

"Potential Murderers"
Daley opened his news conference by relating that he had just told Conlisk "very emphatically and very definitely that an order be issued under his signature to shoot to kill any arsonist or anyone with a Molotov cocktail in his hand in Chicago because they're potential murderers."

Further, Daley said, Conlisk should "issue a police order to shoot to maim or cripple anyone looting any stores in our city. Above all, the crime of arson is to me the most hideous and worst crime of any and should be dealt with in this fashion."

Conlisk, 49, was appointed police superintendent by Daley June 23. The mayor was asked if he would remove Conlisk. He replied he wouldn't discuss that now. Conlisk refused to comment.

Broken Leg Again Threatens Congressman's Voting Record
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Charles Bennett has broken a leg for the fourth time. Once again his record string of uninterrupted roll call voting in the U.S. House of Representatives is in jeopardy.

Since June 4, 1951, Rep. Bennett, D-Fla., has answered every roll call in the House—about 2,000 of them. No other congressman has matched that voting record in terms of years, as far as congressional officials can say.

Two broken legs and the delayed birth of a daughter didn't keep him away. He has battled deep snow and made emergency transportation connections to keep the record going.

Bennett, a decorated Army veteran of World War II who contracted polio while leading guerrillas against the Japanese in the Philippines, did miss some roll calls shortly after beginning his first term in Congress in 1949.

That was when he broke a leg for the first time after his discharge from an Army hospital in 1947.

Despite the polio that crippled his legs and left them brittle, he refused to be confined in a wheel chair and learned to walk with the aid of a cane and a brace on his right leg.

Once his voting record was started, he made extra efforts to keep it alive. In May 1963 he left the hospital where his wife was expecting their fourth child—a birth which was behind schedule—to make a roll call

Caper for Dame Margot

Ballerina in Plot

LONDON (AP)—Dame Margot Fonteyn, Britain's premier ballerina, has pulled another cloak and dagger caper in Panamanian politics with a plot to kidnap the chief of Panama's national guard to guarantee her husband's safety.

Dame Margot told the London Daily Sketch today that the plot was abandoned but four Britons she hired to help with the snatch had been arrested in Panama.

The brown-eyed star of the Royal Ballet said: "My husband knew nothing of the plot, but I feared for his safety."

Her husband is Dr. Roberto Arias, a Panamanian politician who has been paralyzed since he was wounded by a political rival in 1964.

He is reported in Panama for the election next month of a president and a new national assembly.

Dame Margot said she planned to kidnap Brig. Gen. Bolivar Vallarino, who heads Panama's army, if Arias was arrested.

"The plan—and it was to go into operation only in the event of my husband's arrest—was to have Vallarino abducted and held for 10 days," she told the Sketch. "The arrangement would be that if we held the chief of police and they held my husband we could do a swap."

Dame Margot did not explain why she feared her husband might be arrested.

Dame Margot disclosed her plan to kidnap Vallarino on the eve of her departure for the United States to tour there with the Royal Ballet. She said after the tour, she would go to Panama for the elections—"If I am arrested, it will be just too bad; being there is a matter of conscience."

Lawyer David Jacobs said he was acting for the four Britons arrested in Panama. He said they "were among a group of some 40 mercenaries from Europe sent out to Panama with instructions to sit tight. The four Britons and some of the foreigners were arrested when they arrived in the country a few weeks ago."

He said the men "were employed by a business agency in London and I am working on their instructions." He added: "Coded messages to the agency have told us that the men are well and under house arrest until the presidency is settled on May 23."

Knowles Dislikes Some State Job Standards
MADISON (AP)—Gov. Warren P. Knowles suggested Monday the state might want to change certain job standards in order to permit the employment of more members of minority groups.

The governor noted the state requires a person to have either a college degree or five years experience before he is eligible to take a civil service examination to be a parking lot attendant.

"This just doesn't look right to me," Knowles commented.

North Vietnamese Intensifying Defense Of Southern Panhandle, Military Feels

SAIGON (AP)—The air war against North Vietnam cost the United States four more planes Monday, two shot down over the southern panhandle and two lost when they collided in the air, military sources said today. Five of the fliers were rescued and one was lost.

Military sources suggested the North Vietnamese may be moving more anti-aircraft guns south to counter the increase in American bombing of the panhandle since President Johnson banned raids farther north.

The two planes shot down were Air Force F105s and both were hit near Dong Hoi, about 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone. The U.S. spokesman said anti-aircraft fire around Dong Hoi was extremely heavy and possibly the enemy had been installing new weapons positions in the panhandle area.

Raids Doubled
Since President Johnson halted U.S. bombing north of the 20th Parallel on April 1 in an attempt to open peace discussions with Hanoi, U.S. pilots have more than doubled their usual number of daily raids on the panhandle.

One of the F105 pilots, Col. David W. Winn, 44, of Minneapolis, Minn., maneuvered his crippled Thunderchief 100 miles south over the South China Sea, bailed out at 18,000 feet, and was picked up by a "jolly green giant" helicopter.

The pilot of the second F105 is listed as missing in action. Military sources said two Navy F4 Phantoms from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf collided southeast of Vinh, a North Vietnamese city about 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

SAIGON, reconnaissance planes reported 69 enemy killed in destruction of 218 bunkers, military structures and more than 1,000 yards of trench line. The other B52 missions pounded anti-aircraft positions and enemy troops building roads through the A Shau Valley, North Vietnamese logistics base and possible staging ground for another massive attack on Hue, to the east. Targets also included troop concentrations, trucks and storage areas.

South of the A Shau Valley, the central highlands, a North Vietnamese attack was reported near the Cambodian border. A U.S. spokesman warned "This is a potentially hot area."

Kissing Disease-Cancer Link Found

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—There may be a positive link between infectious mononucleosis, widely known as the kissing disease, and a malignant tumor which is quite common in Africa but rare in the United States.

That was the report today by Dr. Julius S. Horoszewicz of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y.

If the link, a virus, is established definitely, it will be the first time that a virus has been indicted as a cause of cancer-type disease in humans.

The virus has already been shown by other researchers to be associated with infectious mononucleosis, a not usually severe disease that causes fever, chills, general bad feeling, fatigue and sometimes headache and chest pain.

Positive Reaction
Researchers have shown that the virus reacts with protective antibodies from humans who have already had the kissing disease, the Roswell Park report said. The reaction is the same as an infecting virus would produce in a vaccinated person, indirect evidence that the virus causes infectious mononucleosis.

The New York researcher, associated with Dr. James T. Grace Jr., and Dr. Virginia C. Dunkel, gave his report to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, meeting here.

They found that the same virus associated with infectious mononucleosis is the one often seen under the electron microscope.

Marine Hero Honored for Giving Life

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marine Pfc. Douglas E. Dickey of Rossburg, Ohio, and five other men were pinned down by enemy gunfire in Vietnam when someone yelled, "Grenade!"

Dickey, 21, dived on it. He died but the others survived. "He must have realized it was too late for us to take cover," recalled one of the others, Hospitalman 3 C Gregory R. Long.

"He gave me one short glance and lunged forward, deliberately covering the grenade with his body."

Today, Dickey was to be posthumously honored with his nation's highest decoration, the Medal of Honor. Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius was to present it to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickey.

Lance Cpl. William L. Dorsey, who was there, said that after the grenade exploded he thought several men must have been killed.

"Then," Dorsey added, "someone said, 'Oh, God! He jumped on it to save our lives!'"

In the world of PR one might say Appleton is getting the kind of positive publicity that money can't buy.

In recent months the reconstructed and beautified College Avenue has been getting rave notices in news and trade publication stories across the country.

The latest accolade appeared in the April edition of American City Magazine, official publication of municipal management and engineering, which has a wide circulation in the United States and abroad.

However, this time American City featured a story, complete with pictures of daily operations, of Appleton's new municipal service building at the end of East Glendale Avenue near the new industrial park. It told how the facility, opened last year, enables the Department of Public Works to do a better job while saving money and time.

It's another example of how good news spreads and points out to those who should know and appreciate that Appleton is one of Wisconsin's fast-growing and progressive metropolitan regions.

Youth as a Loyal Opposition

The energetic role which college students are playing in the primary campaigns of Sen. Eugene McCarthy calls to mind a recent speech by Rep. John W. Byrnes in which he called for responsible dissent.

Byrnes has challenged today's youth "to dig for the answer" in the social, political and economic problems of the nation. He describes young people as sort of a loyal opposition, naturally in the forefront of social and political controversy. The Eighth District congressman adds that dissent challenges complacency and promotes debate, discussion and re-examination of the ideas attacked.

Some generations have had their flaming youth, but today's young people, at least in the minds of some of their elders, seem to be in a constant state of protest. This protest may take the form of LSD, new morality or the hippie movement. But such cases are by far the exception. Many teen-agers and young adults actively are expressing their views that the war in Vietnam is in contradiction to the principles which their parents have taught them. Their teachers have shown them that knowledge consists of inquiry and an examination of both points of view on a question. This inquiry sometimes bothers this generation's elders, since the comforting security of traditional authority thus is toppled.

But such searching is necessary for the maturing generation, as it has been for every other generation. If this searching and the often resultant dissent is accompanied by a responsible desire for the facts, then today's youth can stimulate a valuable re-examination of the issues faced today by society.

Maier Changes Signals on Open Housing

Whatever your opinion may be of Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee, you must give him credit for having an acute sense of the niceties in the fine art of political timing.

All during the latter half of last year, when Father Groppi was spearheading marathon protest marches demanding an open housing ordinance for the city, the Mayor delicately side-stepped the issue. He maintained first that it was up to the state legislature to remove the exemptions from present state law which covers only about one-third of the housing units in the state. Then he said it should be a county responsibility to enact such an ordinance. Finally he offered to recommend a city ordinance if Milwaukee's suburban neighbors would do likewise.

It must be remembered that Negroes comprise only about 10 per cent of Milwaukee's population, and that Mayor Maier's solid base of political support lies with the city's low and middle income white population. On April 2, Maier won reelection in a landslide vote.

But the political climate on open housing changed abruptly in the wake of the assassination of Martin Luther King. Within a week Congress passed a long-stalled open housing law which will cover some 80 per cent of the nation's dwelling units. And President Johnson signed the bill immediately.

The next day Mayor Maier called upon the Milwaukee City Council to enact an ordinance duplicating the federal statute. "The central city should take the initiative at once," he declared. And then he will lead a campaign for a county ordinance and modification of the state law.

It must be remembered that as a Democratic state senator some years ago Henry Maier belonged to the liberal wing of that party. In fact he was an author of the first open housing bill introduced in the legislature. Father Groppi's campaign in Milwaukee thus put him in an embarrassing position for a time.

But with his whopping election victory under his belt, and supported by the new federal law and the new civil rights climate in the nation it reflects, Mayor Maier can now step forward again as the foremost champion of open housing in the state.

50 Conferences Later

The difficulties of dealing with Communist regimes over even matters of small importance are demonstrated in the long series of arguments between the Japanese Red Cross and its counterpart in North Korea.

In 1959 the two organizations agreed that Koreans in Japan who wanted to return to North Korea would be repatriated over a 15 month period. The agreement was extended seven times until 88,000 Koreans had been sent home as they requested. The numbers asking for such repatriation dropped off sharply and there seemed to be little reason to continue the special measures.

Last summer the Japanese government moved to end the repatriation agreement which had been close to expiration so many times but extended it once again to November, 1967. The Japanese Red Cross met with North Korean representatives over ways to send home the few that still desired it. But all the Koreans would do was demand another extension of the collective measure. They would make no arrangements to repatriate those who wanted to come back and they wouldn't listen to explanations of the regular exit procedures which others in Japan take when they want to leave the country. Almost 50 conferences were held with no conclusions whatever.

The Japanese point out that any Korean who wants to go back to North Korea may now do so under the regular exit procedures. But one must wonder at this point, 9 years after the first agreement and 15 years after the truce in the Korean War, exactly why they would want to — and why North Korea would accept them.

It is more likely that this is just something to hold conferences and argue about as far as the government of North Korea is concerned.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 11, 1868.

As it is now the season for planting trees and shrubbery, we would call attention of our readers to this subject.

It is in the hope that all will give it heed, and set out some trees. Go to the woods and procure some fine varieties and put them out in front of your dwelling, or alongside the street in front of your places.

Get good currant, raspberry and blackberry slips for your gardens. Take pains in setting them out, and in a few years they will repay you 10 times over for your trouble. If you can't get them from dealers, get them from your neighbors or friends. Plant them and have them growing.

Trees or shrubs take little care, and are not only an ornament to a place, but are yearly returning a large income for the amount invested.

While you sleep, trees grow.

Laurel pins were awarded to three juniors at Kaukauna High School, designating them full-fledged members of the Green Room Artists, dramatic and make-up club at the school. President Patricia Van Lieshout presented the pins to new members Rosemary Stegeman, Ruth Coglein and Connie Steidl.

Bobby Kennedy Is in Motion; That's Secret of His Campaign

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

At a major mid-western university one day recently two of its brightest students found themselves planning for an impending visit by Senator Robert Kennedy. Both are highly practiced in making arrangements for visiting dignitaries, having served as heads of the student speaker's series, so that although they

(10) advance men pile out of an airplane and begin issuing orders at the rate of approximately ten per minute, for a period of about ten hours, totally rearranging, not to say convulsing, the well-laid plans of the two college students.

For one thing, the appearance will not be in the field house, but in the gymnasium. Why? the students ask. The field house holds ten-thousand, the gym 3,000; surely it is better to talk to ten than to three thousand? The chief advance man smiles. Look, he says, in the first place, how are you going to be sure that ten-thousand people will come in to fill the field house? There are only 150,000 people in this whole town, and a lot of them just aren't interested. Sure, Charlie will try to get the school board to declare a holiday so the kids can come. But maybe he'll succeed, maybe he won't. Meanwhile, we can be sure to fill the gym, and what matters is that TV shows SRO. Better a full room of 100 people than the Hollywood Bowl with a hundred empty seats.

The technique, a professional carefully explains, is at the one hand obvious, but even so, effective. Mr. Kennedy's appeal is to the youth, and he is as aware as anyone that they do not vote. But never mind they are the instruments through which he intends to communicate an enthusiasm for his candidacy to older people, and by one simple means: the six o'clock and the eleven o'clock news every day. Every day at that time, when the television networks give their reports on the day's news, there will be shots of a mass student audience at a gymnasium somewhere, having been carefully deployed by the advance men, responding like snake dancers to the directions of the high priest. The idea is that the viewer will come soon to believe that this is force majeure. That is when the delegates will begin to feel — or so it is programmed by Mr. Kennedy's strategists — that an irresistible force is moving through the land. And in politics what you do about irresistible forces is lie down and enjoy it.

The two students, awaiting the arrival of the senator, are amused by it all. They are of a rather different breed from the typical Kennedymaniacs who treat him as they would a visit by Our Lady of Lourdes, exposing all their infirmities to him for instant curing. For one thing, they have no particular respect for Mr. Kennedy's mind, and none at all for what he is saying. They can agree that he is most fearfully demagogic, that one can never tell what he really believes, that a line pursuing his disjointed statements on Johnson and Vietnam would touch every point of any graph: that the revivalist aspect of the public meetings is the result of intensive planning, of exquisitely orchestrated emotions and programming.

Still, what matters, as one of them puts it, is: "Kennedy is in motion." There. There is the excitement of Kennedy. They don't like it where they are, and Kennedy will move things in another direction. What direction? It seems to matter only that it should be in a direction other than the inertial direction. In that sense we are sitting on top of the north pole, and wherever we go, we are going south. The Kennedy-watchers must grasp this element. It is the key to his success.

There is no other key. What, just what has he said in the month he has been campaigning, that would stick in the mind of anyone? Nothing, nothing at all. What about his delivery, his general appearance? For all his efforts to worked diligently to make certain that everything would be just right, they felt no stage fright at producing an appearance by a presidential candidate, not even by the presidential candidate they ardently favor, for they have been, ever since Kennedy's entry into the race, president and vice president of the state Youth for Kennedy.

Twenty-four hours before the visitation, an incredible ten

Drew Street Not Suitable For Through Traffic Artery

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is an article in answer to Mr. Carl Roehl's argument for widening of Drew St. — Perhaps he does not realize, the planning concern hired by the city fifteen years ago, at great expense to the taxpayers, strongly advised against Drew St. being an arterial street. This portion of their recommendation (and I am sure there must have been others) was overruled.

Mr. Roehl has failed to notice Drew St. is unique as a main artery. It is strictly residential unless you class parks, schools and churches as business. To me, they are a hinderance and hazard to heavy traffic. A life greater than our beautiful trees may be sacrificed — that of a child. Any motorist can allow himself an extra five minutes or take one of the many other routes. Granted, business places do not offer as scenic a drive.

As to his reference to the new S. Oneida high-level bridge: I would say it takes a lot of imagination to even indirectly tie in Drew St.

I am only a wife of one of the many businessmen and taxpayers on Drew St. Yet, as a forty-five year resident of Appleton, I do not believe in piece-meal destruction of our residential areas. There are many changes which are in great need at this time, namely, a water supply, adequate sewage treatment and the previously mentioned bridge for a few. Let us begin with essentials and basic necessities.

Wisconsin Report

Capitol Reporters All Voted Against Annual Legislative Sessions

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Jottings from the statehouse press gallery:

The repeal of the federal stamp tax on property tax exemptions and the failure of the state legislature to replace it with a similar device to help state property tax supervisors in their property tax valuation work, has sorely impeded the work of the State Department of Revenue.

James R. Morgan, secretary of the department, is now in the process of recruiting a special staff to take sample valuations in current property sales in representative localities to provide the data required to keep tax equalization figures reasonably up-to-date. He had asked the legislature for a state property transactions tax for the same purpose, but that idea failed because it was incorporated in the county assessor bill that was defeated narrowly by the legislature late last year.

One of the most persistent myths in state administration is that the giant federal government stands ready with a huge club to force compliance with its wishes in state operations — in the form of threats to withhold a variety of aids. Some state officials are worrying about such punitive measures again. But in several decades, there has yet to be recorded an instance of actual withholding of state aids because of state administration default or recalcitrance.

Editors are sometimes not entirely aware of it, but professional Capitol reporters do not greet new legislative sessions with joyous cheers. They mean hard work, long hours, and sometimes dull hours that cannot be avoided. An informal poll shows that most of the reporters, now working at the statehouse voted against the annual session constitutional amendment on the ballot this spring, which was ratified by the people, nevertheless.

Watch for protracted deliberations in the next year involving a thorough revision of the voluminous Wisconsin laws governing food standards, and especially dairy food standards, and demands from dairy interests for protection against the threats to their market of an ever-growing volume and variety of dairy substitute products.

When One Ponders One Gets Perplexed

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
Why is it that the people who say "It goes without saying" never go without saying it.

Why is it that we talk about the "dead past" when we want to ignore some parallel with today's problems, but about "the lessons of history" when we want to make some dramatic comparison?

Why is it that we always say "reiterate" when "iterate" would be enough?

Why is it that the phrase "gracious living" seems so ungracious to those who can't afford it?

Why is it that so many parents expect little children to "listen to reason," when the age of reason doesn't begin until at least 7, isn't fully developed until 18, and in Many Republicans privately believe that their best nominee against Democratic Sen. Gaylord Nelson in the fall would be one of the prominent and senior Wisconsin Republican congressmen, such as Reps. Laird, Byrnes or Davis. But those men are happy in their present roles, with rising seniority and power. Each of them could expect high committee or leadership rank if the Republicans manage to recapture the House of Representatives, this year or in 1970. Laird is commonly spoken of by his friends as the most likely candidate for speaker of the House that this state has ever produced.

The suggestion that Talbot Peterson of Appleton, former Republican party chairman, may ask for Republican party convention endorsement for U.S. senator recalls a provocative historical fact in state politics.

That fact is that rarely has a party chairman or a man whose prominence derived from a party organization command post run well for elective office. Several examples come readily to mind, the late Edward J. Samp in the 1930's, the late F. L. Gullickson in the 1950's, among Republicans, Jerome Fox in the 1930's, and more recently Patrick J. Lucey and Louis J. Hanson. The reasons are not easy to identify. Is it because these men wear an aura of "bossism" because of their party machine identification? It would be a useful topic for a research thesis for a serious student of political affairs.

As far as is known, no Wisconsin locality has yet acted under the optional authority granted by the 1967 legislature to enact a percentage tax on hotel and motel bills for the relief of property tax budgets. But the reason may be that the new law was enacted very late in 1967, when most localities had virtually completed their budgeting arrangements. The innkeepers' association is worried about next year, and will appeal to the legislature to get rid of the optional levy.

Some Democrats are talking up Richard Cudahy, the new Democratic state chairman, as a candidate for nomination for attorney general, but if Cudahy is interested in the idea, he is saying nothing about it.

The naivete of some of the national press on the Wisconsin presidential primary was shown, among other ways, in the comparisons made between the tiny write-in vote for George Wallace and the reasonably substantial vote for Gov. Reagan. Of course, Reagan was on the ballot, a distinction that should have been too obvious to be missed.

many cases remains passive for a lifetime?

Why do we still disparagingly refer to an idealistic plan as "Utopian," when virtually everything in the Utopian schemes of the past has been achieved or exceeded, beyond the wildest dreams of their founders?

Why is it that the speakers who "need no introduction" are generally given the longest and dullest ones?

Why is it that a man who would be the first to admit that he is involved in a "race" would be the first to resent being termed a "rat"?

Why is it that people who refer to themselves as "generous to a fault" imagine that their generosity makes up for their other faults?

Why is it that when a person tries to emphasize a sentence with the word "literally," he almost always means "not literally"?

Why is it that whenever a man says to me, "I agree with you in principle," it is clear that he is going to go against his principles.

Why is it that we "upbraid" others in reproving them, instead of "downbraid"? And why "shortcomings," but no "longcomings"?

Why is it that speakers or writers who want to sound impressive use the word "fruition" — which has nothing to do with "coming to fruit," but properly refers to enjoyment rather than maturity?

Why is it that we laugh at the delicate euphemism of our grandparents having called a leg a "limb" and a bosom a "chest" — when we follow the modern custom of referring to illicit sex relations as an "affair."

Congress Taking Long Look at Needs of Poor

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's decision to delay indefinitely his address to Congress on a program dealing with the racial crisis is largely a reaction to political realities. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has made clear that Johnson would have trouble winning approval of massive new spending programs when budget cutbacks are being pushed in line with efforts to raise taxes.

But some Congress members, including Republican Sens. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Charles H. Percy of Illinois, as well as GOP Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, have criticized the "business as usual" attitude that sees Congress taking its regular Easter recess. Bigger Holiday Actually, the House is taking much more of a holiday than the Senate, which returns to work Wednesday with major measures on the agenda such as the school breakfast program, military procurement and the anticrime bill. While House leaders insist they can only schedule business as fast as committees approve bills, the fact is that three-and-four-day-a-week sessions cut down the time committees can have enough members present to meet. In this atmosphere, the major effect of a Johnson speech to Congress would probably have been a psychological one, to get action on parts of his program pending in committees.

But there are signs that Congress is becoming more receptive to the need for programs aimed at helping the poor in urban slums and rural areas. Open Housing
One is the House vote on the open-housing bill, particularly the surprisingly large amount of support from younger Republicans. It is this group which has frequently in the past year determined the outcome of fights over urban measures, helping for example to put over funds for the model-cities program while sharply cutting back on rent supplements. In the Senate, meanwhile, a bipartisan coalition handed the "establishment" a rare setback in rejecting a compromise money bill that cut funds for the impacted areas school aid program, summer jobs and the preschool Head Start program. While some rurally oriented members joined in providing opposition to the impacted areas cuts the vote is significant as the first one since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the resulting riots.

Even if the House wins the fight and the extra money is eventually eliminated, it will have been put on notice that the Senate is not going to follow demands for economy to the point of neglecting critical areas. This week, a similar fight is expected when the Senate votes whether to approve its Agriculture Committee's proposed elimination of a proposed three-year, $96 million extension of the school lunch program to day-care and recreation centers throughout the summer months. The House approved the new program with no effort to cut or eliminate it, and initial debate indicates it has strong Senate support.

Clues Go Nowhere In Shooting of King

Suspect Eric Starvo Galt Has Vanished, Leaving No Trace

By DON MCKEE
Associated Press Writer

False leads multiplied in the hunt for Eric Starvo Galt, a mysterious quiet-talking man whose last known address was a Birmingham rooming house. His former landlord said Monday he had identified drawings shown by FBI agents as resembling Eric Galt.

"It's him," said Peter Cherpes, 72, who runs a two-story Southside boarding house where an Eric Galt lived for six weeks last fall.

Galt's abandoned white Mustang was impounded last Thursday by the FBI in Atlanta. It fit the description of a car seen leaving the scene after King was killed April 4 by a sniper firing from a rooming house in Memphis, Tenn.

Memphis witnesses described the suspected assassin, who registered as John Willard at a rooming house opposite King's motel, as about six feet and sandy-haired and "a clean, neat man."

No trace of Willard has apparently been found.

An FBI alert for Eric Starvo Galt in a white Mustang was issued in Florida last Thursday, but was canceled. However, the FBI has continued a search for Galt's whereabouts or clues to his past.

Nothing Revealed

After Cherpes disclosed what his boarder said of his work and background, Associated Press inquiries turned up blanks.

Is there a real Eric Starvo Galt? The FBI was asked, but declined comment. Neither would the FBI say why Galt was wanted, though the Florida alert had sought only to spot the man, not arrest him.

The man known as Eric Galt had said he was employed at a Mississippi shipyard, but there was no record of him. He claimed he held Louisiana driver's license six years ago, but no record was found in the files.

The crozier used, incidentally, was Bishop Wycislo's own, the one he received from Albert Cardinal Meyer on the occasion of his consecration in Chicago's Holy Name Cathedral in 1960. Bishop Wycislo was an auxiliary bishop of Chicago at the time of his appointment to succeed the late Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona here.

Bishop Wycislo then bestowed on the assembly his first blessing in his new office and Archbishop Raimondi delivered a short sermon.

The rites were concluded by the concelebrated mass, at which Archbishop Raimondi was the chief celebrant, accompanied by Bishops Wycislo and John B. Grellinger, auxiliary bishop of the diocese, and several other members of the diocesan clergy.

was present, as were Abbot S. M. Killen of the Premonstratensians and the Rev. Daclan Bluma of the Franciscan Order. Twenty other bishops from all over the nation filled the sanctuary to the limit.

Among distinguished lay figures at the ceremony were Gov. Warren P. Knowles, Rep. John W. Byrnes, Mayor Donald Tillemann of Green Bay and Brown County Board Chairman Myron Lott.

The ceremony began at 10:30 a.m. with procession of brilliantly vested priests and prelates into the cathedral. Converging from two directions, the procession moved quietly into the church, the ranking hierarchy following the lower clergy. At the tail of the procession came priests carrying the crozier and mitre, symbols of the bishop's authority.

When everyone had taken places, Cardinal Cody between the screened off high altar and the throne, Archbishop Raimondi on the throne itself, Bishop Wycislo was seated on a low, folding chair called a faldstool in the center of the sanctuary, facing the assembly. It was a brilliant picture under the bright lights of the cathedral.

Letter of Appointment

After preliminary prayers, the Rev. Richard Ver Bust, notary of St. Francis Cathedral, stepped forward and read aloud the letter of appointment from Pope Paul VI. Reading the papal letter in English translation instead of the traditional Latin was an innovation, as was the general straight-forward language of the message itself.

After reading the appointments, the Rev. Ver Bust handed the document to Archbishop Raimondi. The latter then left the throne and, in company with Archbishop Cousins, escorted Bishop Wycislo to the seat of honor and authority. The apostolic delegate presented Bishop Wycislo with his crozier and the

Rioting Spreads in Germany

By HANS METZING
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFURT, Germany

(AP) — Police battled leftist demonstrators in the streets around the Axel Springer publishing plants in Frankfurt and Munich Monday night as thousands of students tried to prevent distribution of today's newspapers.

More than 150 demonstrators were arrested as student rioting spread to West Germany. Thirty demonstrators were reported seriously injured.

One student was reported hit by a Springer truck during an attempt to blockade the publisher's Hamburg plant.

West Berlin was free of student violence Monday for the first time since the attempted assassination there last Thursday of Rudi Dutschke, 28-year-old leader of the Socialist Student Federation, or SDS. But more than 2,000 West Berlin students held a nonviolent demonstration under the watchful eyes of police with water cannon.

Out of Danger

Dutschke, hospitalized with three bullet wounds, was reported out of immediate danger. A house painter accused of shooting him, 23-year-old Josef Bachmann, was wounded by the police who captured him and was reported in good condition at the same hospital.

Springer, the biggest newspaper per and magazine publisher in continental Europe, has long been a target of leftist students because of his conservative editorial policy. The SDS claims attacks in the Springer papers on Germany's dissatisfied leftist students were an indirect incitement to the attack on Dutschke.

A casualty of Monday's fight at the Springer plant in Munich was Associated Press photographer Klaus Frings. He was in serious condition after being struck on the head by a stone during the fighting.

Four other persons were seriously injured and more than 100 arrested in Munich. Police said they found an incendiary device in a courtyard of the printing plant.

5,000 in Blockade

The battle in Frankfurt was joined after police moved from behind barbed wire barricades and tried to convoy about a dozen delivery trucks through a crowd of 5,000 blockading the printing plant.

Police water cannon leading the delivery trucks ran out of water, and the demonstrators swarmed over the vehicles breaking windows and slashing tires. Several of the drivers were pulled from their trucks. Police moved in with their clubs swinging.

Demonstrators hurled stones at police and Lord Mayor Willy Brundert said the demonstrators also threw bags of quicklime and paint.

About 1,500 youths chanting "Ho! Ho! Ho Chi Minh!" marched to a railway station where the newspapers are normally loaded. They then walked to City Hall and called for Brundert's dismissal.

Twenty-six demonstrators were reported seriously hurt.

In a show of support for the West German students, 2,000 young British marchers clashed with police who sealed off the building where Springer's London offices are located. Hundreds threw themselves against the police in an unsuccessful attempt to break through, and 18 demonstrators were arrested in the 45-minute melee.

Federal Accounting in Detroit Shows Big Errors in Aid Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Accounting Office report says the Detroit antipoverity administration has given the government inaccurate and misleading information on participants and tried to get financial credit for facilities that weren't used.

The report to Congress on a GAO audit also found "duplication of administrative effort and cost" in the Detroit program which it said the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity has been unable to correct. In this connection the GAO, which is an arm of Congress, criticized use of a Catholic church agency.

The 85-page report was released shortly after the Associated Press reported that the GAO, the Detroit city auditor's office and a state legislative committee all were looking into operations of the antipoverity agency—the Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development, headed by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

Another Audit

The GAO already is at work on a new audit of the Detroit program. Its published report covered the 1965 and 1966 fiscal years.

Detroit has received about $50 million in federal antipoverity funds. Only New York and Chicago have gotten more. Detroit also is one of only two cities whose major antipoverity agency is an arm of city government rather than an independent non-profit corporation. The other is Chicago.

The GAO said some participation figures provided by the Detroit agency—and on which the Office of Economic Opportunity had to rely for future planning—were inflated.

One report for a particular school program listed 7,539 participants. But in checking school-by-school enrollment figures, the GAO said it found 4,000 fewer participants.

Another school program report listed 15,000 nonadult participants. The GAO said school board reports showed only 2,479 took part.

The GAO said the Detroit Board of Education—to whom the mayor's committee contracted some antipoverity education programs—tried to get too much financial credit for classroom space it provided.

The city was required to contribute 10 per cent of the cost of antipoverity programs. Value of the space provided was allowed to count toward this contribution. The GAO said it checked $342,160 in claims and found only $71,855 was justified.

It said at one school the city claimed rent on a basis of 2,184 room-days of use, but that the rooms were reserved for antipoverity programs only 319 of those days—and may have been used even less than that.

The report said rent was charged to the antipoverity program even for some days on which other organizations used the rooms.

sians—to send three men to the moon with a single launch.

Present U.S. plans call for the first astronauts to hopefully be on the moon late next year. The general feeling in the West is that the Soviets can't do it before 1970.

However, there are indications the Russians may attempt a circumlunar flight late this year or early next—sending a manned craft once around the moon's backside and returning it to earth.

The Defense Department, meanwhile, is planning a separate military space called the Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL). Problems in defining program objectives and developing the hardware have put off the first two-man launch until 1971—nearly four years behind the original schedule. The cost also has escalated from the originally estimated $1.5 billion to nearly $2.5 billion.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Methodist Church, the Rev. H. A. Graubner officiating.

Friends may call at Fargo Funeral Home, Stockbridge, between 4 p.m. today and 10 a.m. Wednesday, then at the church.

Rusch was born July 14, 1907, in the Town of Rantoul and was married to the former Evelyn Haberland Oct. 4, 1928, at Brillion.

He was a member of Peace United Church of Christ, Potter.

Survivors include his widow, two daughters, six grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Peace Church. Friends may call at Weiting Funeral Home, Brillion, after 2 p.m. Thursday.

The GAO said it rechecked the rental situation after bringing the matter to OEO's attention and found it still was unsatisfactory. It recommended that "all past and present claims of the Board of Education be revalued."

The linkups also are steps toward a long-stated Soviet goal of building a large space station in orbit. Its main goal would be military surveillance.

Budget cuts have delayed the launching of the first U.S. manned space station from an original 1968 launching until at least 1970. It will be a three-man workshop for scientific purposes.

The Defense Department, meanwhile, is planning a separate military space called the Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL). Problems in defining program objectives and developing the hardware have put off the first two-man launch until 1971—nearly four years behind the original schedule. The cost also has escalated from the originally estimated $1.5 billion to nearly $2.5 billion.

The space agency and Defense Department are considering merging the two programs after early flights.

This country's MOL program aims at sending a team of astronauts orbiting for a month of experiments to determine how well man can operate in space.

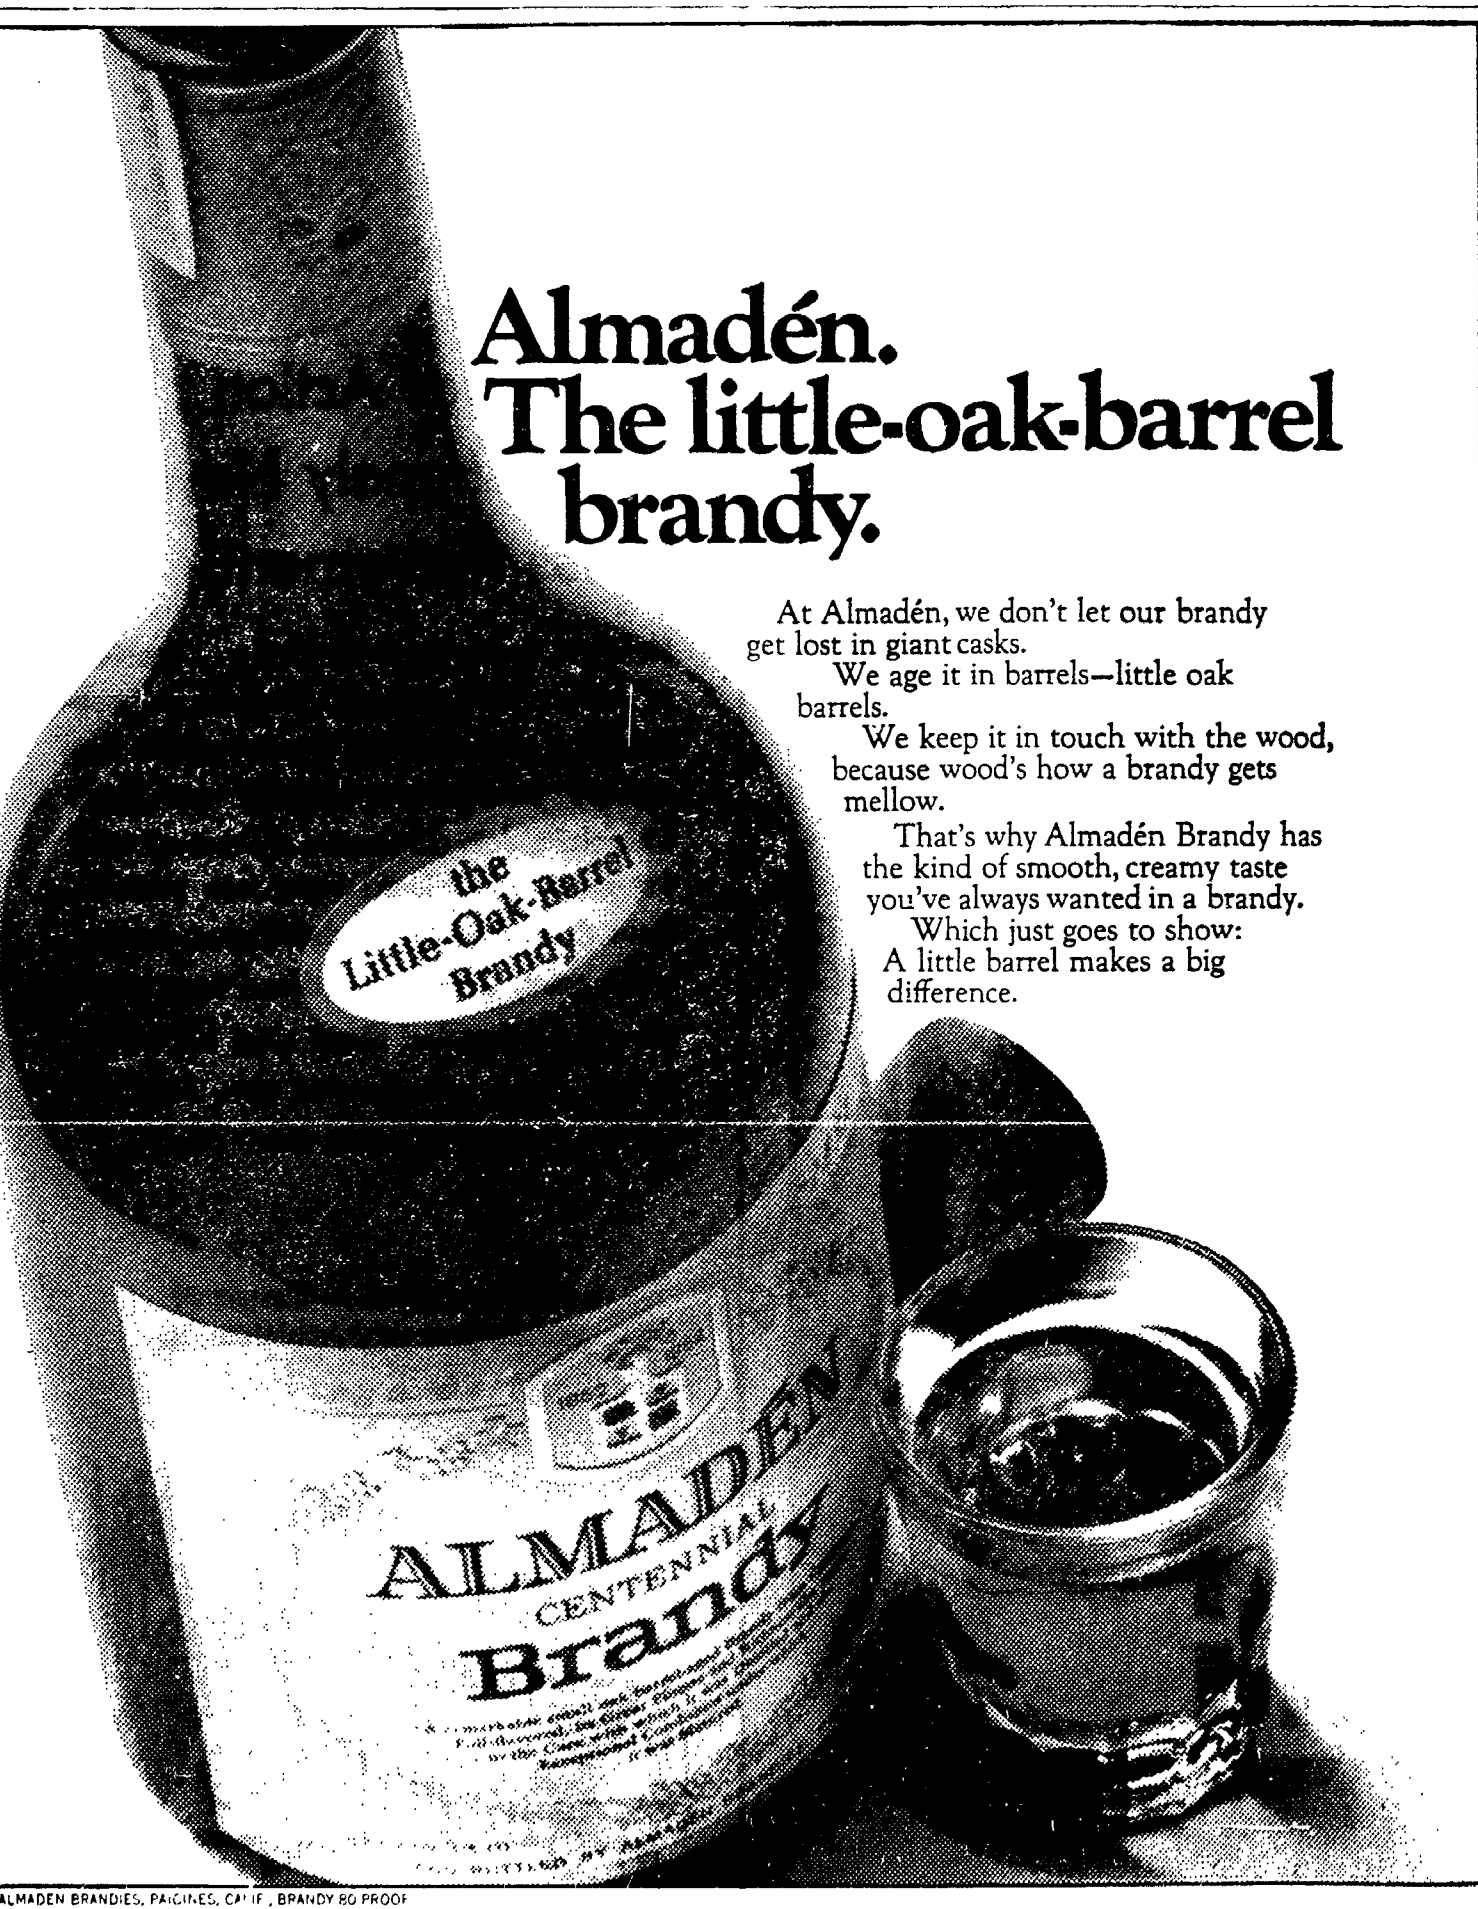

Military Posts

The long-range view is that someday U.S. astronauts may be able to operate military command posts orbiting the earth.

The manned flights—to be preceded by two unmanned shots—will involve a two-part spacecraft lifted by a gigantic Titan 3C booster with two million pounds of thrust.

The front end will be a modified Gemini capsule in which two astronauts will ride skyward. Connected behind will be a 42-foot canister-like lab where the crew will live, work, eat and sleep in shirtsleeve environment for 30 days, flying at altitudes up to 350 miles.

When their mission is finished the astronauts will climb through a trap door back into the Gemini capsule for the ride back to earth, abandoning the lab to lonely orbiting.

K-C Division Changes Told Worldwide Market Program Revamped; Appointments Made

NEENAH — Reorganization of Kimberly-Clark Corporation's international division and the appointment of two divisional vice presidents were announced today by W. W. Cross, corporate vice president in charge of the division.

The division has management responsibilities for paper and cellulose products manufacturing and marketing in 27 countries and for sale of these products in some 125 countries worldwide.

The reorganization, Cross said, shifts Kimberly-Clark from a geographically - oriented area manager concept to one which broadens responsibilities of local managements of subsidiary and associated companies and centralizes direction from the corporation's Neenah headquarters.

Vice Presidents

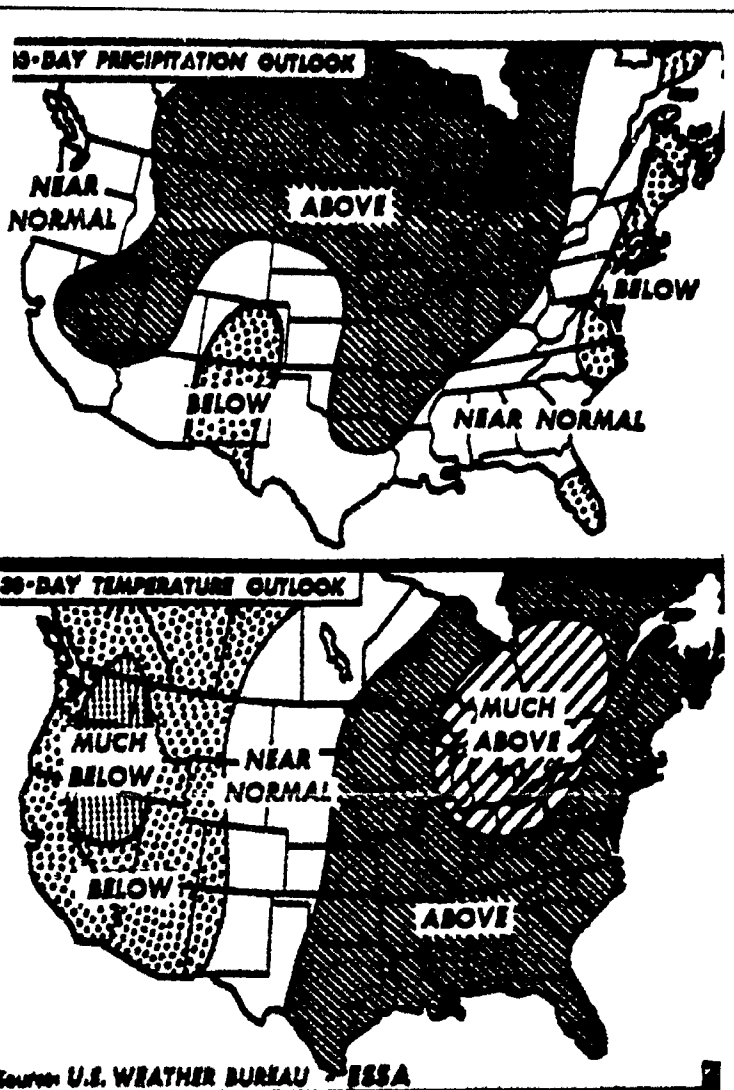

Named divisional vice presidents are A. F. Haycraft, formerly assistant to the general manager operations, Kimberly-Clark of Canada, Ltd., and C. A. Canham, former Far East area director. Both will be located in Neenah.

As a part of the general reorganization, R. B. Sawtell has been named director of personnel with responsibility for the division's increased emphasis on manpower planning and development.

Haycraft will join the international division about August 1. He joined Kimberly-Clark's associated company in Canada, Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co. in 1946 and became assistant to the general manager operations, Kimberly - Clark of Canada, in 1964.

Canham joined Kimberly-Clark's international division in 1963. He was named Far East area director in 1965.

Phenologists Need Help With Insects

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Phenological Society of Madison is interested in learning the date of the state's first 1968 mosquito bite.

The group's phenologists—who study relationships between animal behavior and climate—collect data on animal and plant life, such as the first sign of sap flowing in a tree, the periods between bud and bloom, and the arrival of the season's first insects.

The society said it is in need of observers who will help keep statistics based on backyard observations.

It said five counties—Adams, Dodge, Pepin, Menominee and Forest—have no data-keepers.

It said it has but one observer in each of six other counties—Taylor, Richland, Ozaukee, Bayfield, Clark and Green Lake.

Mayor Daley Favors Humphrey Over Bobby

Mayor Rules Out McCarthy as Serious Contender; Would Back Top Vote-Getter

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — Behind a facade of neutrality, Mayor Richard J. Daley's Chicago Democratic organization and perhaps Daley himself would like nothing better than handing the Presidential nomination to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey at Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's expense.

Daley, who practices politics with oriental inscrutability, gives few public clues of his intentions and has ordered his lieutenants to maintain the same neutrality until the national convention here in August. But based on chance remarks by the Mayor to fellow Democrats, his attitude may be described in this way:

He still does not regard Sen. Eugene McCarthy as a serious contender and looks upon the nomination as a Humphrey vs. Kennedy struggle. By implication, he tends to favor Humphrey over Kennedy, but would support him only if he looks strong enough not only to win Illinois against Richard M. Nixon, but carry in a lackluster state Democratic ticket (whose weakness is partly Daley's responsibility).

Seems Long Shot

That, in effect, requires Humphrey to keep up with Kennedy in the polls — which now seems a long shot. But even a long shot possibility that Kingmaker Dick Daley would throw to Humphrey his support, and with it almost all of Illinois's 118 delegate votes, is enough to chill Kennedy's national strategists.

These strategists, privately contemptuous of many party leaders presiding over decaying organizations, have maintained a wary respect for Daley. Realizing that Daley's choice could be the convention's nominee, Kennedy keeps in close contact with the mayor. Moreover, he tells friends he believes Daley now regards his candidacy favorably.

But Bobby Kennedy would not be the first politician to be misled by Daley's old-fashioned courtesy and garbled syntax into thinking that he was city hall's beloved. Indeed, Daley's comments to colleagues in the organization indicate less than rapture for Kennedy.

Daley's involvement in the strange confrontation in early March between Kennedy and President Johnson over a proposed commission on Vietnam is a case in point. The Kennedy camp believes Daley, who first thought up the commission idea, is upset with the White House for leaking the story. That may be true, but Daley is even more upset with Kennedy.

In conversations with friends, the mayor complains that Kennedy publicly represented the commission idea as Daley's and that Kennedy proposed possible commission members to the President — which, Daley protests, was not his plan at all.

Both Adopt Strategy

To avoid offending the mayor by seeming to pressure him, both the Kennedy and Humphrey camps have adopted a strategy of discouraging Illinois endorsements. One important Democrat here was contemplating an endorsement of Kennedy when Prof. Richard Wade of the University of Chicago, a veteran political activist helping run Kennedy's Illinois campaign, asked him not to.

But the high pressure that always accompanies Kennedy politics somehow has smothered the strategy. Since Kennedy announced for President, one Illinois party leader has been asked for support over the telephone three times by the senator himself, once by brother Teddy (Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts) and once by a pro-Kennedy syndicated newspaper columnist. The incident is not isolated, and Daley resents it.

Nevertheless, Daley the pragmatist, would surely pick Kennedy if the polls show him the strongest candidate were it not for mounting sentiment against Kennedy inside the organization. The anti-Bobby mood in the organization is pervasive — ranging from Daley lieutenants, such as Rep. Daniel Rostenkowski and Cook County Commissioner George W. Dunne, down to ward committeemen.

Grudges Against Bobby

Some harbor grudges against Bobby dating back to 1960 when, at age 34, he was his brother's toe-stomping campaign manager. But most oppose him as too radical, too undependable, and an anti-organization man. This was precisely their attitude earlier this year about Adlai Stevenson III, and their pressure helped keep Stevenson's vote-getting prowess off the ticket.

To counteract this opposition from the organization's foot soldiers, Kennedy must convince Daley that he can draw votes from mutually antagonistic white ethnic groups and slum Negroes as could no other Democrat, including Humphrey. The argument may well work, but Daley is a long way from being convinced right now.

Bringing Up Baby.

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of Five

THE FIVE O'CLOCK FUSS

Occasionally it happens (not to you, I hope) that a baby who's a little angel all day turns cranky in the evening. Just when Mother is getting dinner and Daddy's due home at any minute.

Could be that Mother is tense because she's trying to do too much at this hour. Baby can sense your moods—and reflect them. If this should happen to you, why not plan dinners for Dad that you make early, heat later? Then you can spend the "difficult hour" with baby, getting him happily ready for Dad's arrival.

At any rate, this is just a phase with baby. It won't go on and on.

Happy baby breakfast—or supper. TheyummytasteofGerber®

Oatmeal with Banana or Mixed Cereal with Banana, I mean. Fully-ripened bananas give the flavor. Added iron and B-vitamins step up nutritive values. And—when mixed with milk—these cereals provide a good balance of protein.

Do we fuss too much? Imagine a housewife vacuuming each bag of groceries before it enters the house! We do at Gerber. More—we screen each bag under black light so no foreign matter can enter the plant.

Maybe we "fuss" like this because we started making Gerber Foods for our own babies. And we feel your baby deserves the same kind of care.

Dan Gerber on cereal. "Here at Gerber, we pioneered 'starting cereals' of single grains and introduced rice cereal, barley and oatmeal for babies. Today a majority of babies receive rice cereal as the first solid food, usually on a doctor's recommendation."

Make earlier in the day—could keep an older child from contributing to the 5 o'clock fuss! Add 1 to 2 Tbs. Gerber High Protein Cereal and 1 tsp. mayonnaise to a far of Gerber Egg Yolks. Season with onion salt, spread on celery. Chill. Cut into bite-sized bits.

Play Often To Build Character

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You hear a lot about playing football to build character, and maybe it's all true. But you can build character (both good and bad) at the bridge table, too, and you don't have to run the hundred in ten flat unless you leave your partner in a cue bid.

When today's hand was played in a practice match last month, Bruce Elliott, of the Canadian Olympic bridge team, led the four of hearts against a game in notrump, played by Robert Jordan of the U.S. Olympic team.

South dealer

A greedy declarer would play a low heart from the dummy, taking advantage of the "free" finesse. It would turn out to be very expensive.

East would win with the king of hearts and would see that his side could not tget rich leading hearts. East would think nex tof spades, but would remember that South showed a stopper in the unbid spades by bidding two notrump.

By the process of elimination East would be guided to a diamond switch. Then the defenders would be in position to take four diamond tricks and the ace of clubs, for a two-trick penalty.

It didn't happen because Jordan wasn't greedy. He saw nine virtually sure tricks, and he couldn't see any reason to jeopardize them.

Jordan stepped up with the ace of hearts at the first trick and returned the king of clubs. Now nothing could stop him from winning five clubs, one diamond, one heart and two spades — enough tricks for his game contract.

It isn't necessary to say that a good bridge player is a plaster saint. But the good player does manage to control his natural greed — at least while he's at the bridge table.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, you respond one diamond, and he bids one heart. It is up to you again, with: S J 4 H J 9 5 4 D K J 7 4 2 C A 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid three hearts. This is a very slight overbid, but two hearts would be a massive underbid. No other responses are available.

because she thought he was rich. I said O.K. because I thought he was kind. We were both wrong. The third time he broke my nose I divorced him.

My second marriage lasted two years. My husband drank vodka martinis for breakfast with beer chasers. He worked for the city and had a fatal accident at work. I'm sure he was smashed on the job, but they paid off nicely and I got a generous settlement.

I bought a small cafe three years ago and have been doing very well. The problem: A 19-year-old boy applied for a job four months ago and I hired him. He is handsome, hard-working, and I think we are in love. He is very grown-up for his age and looks a lot older than he is. The Army won't take him because he has a steel plate in his head. He wants to marry me. What do you think?

— Angie

Dear Angie: The kid has a steel plate in his head. What's your excuse?

A fellow 19 should be looking for a girl 17. If you are smart you'll help him find one. Where's his mother, anyway?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 13-year-old boy who thinks your advice stinks. Why did you tell that 12-year-old kid he is better off staying in the house practicing the piano, which he hates, than being out in the fresh air playing ball with the gang? Any doctor will tell you that you are wrong. Also this kid's chances of becoming a great ball player are a lot better than his chances of becoming a great piano player because he said in his letter he loves baseball and hates the piano.

I used to think you were on the side of us kids, but now I think you are a crabby old lady. — Former Friend

Dear Former: I doubt seriously that the boy is in danger of becoming either a great pianist or a great ball player. That, however, is beside the point. What I had in mind was discipline. Unfortunately, too many kids are allowed to do only what is easy, convenient or pleasant and practicing piano is not usually on the list. Got it straight now, Buddy?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were married at a small family wedding. I knew I was pregnant at the time and figured I was about three months along. As it turned out, I was in my fifth month. We left the city shortly after the wedding and now we live about 600 miles away from our families. My mother knows I am pregnant but she has no idea how pregnant I am.

The baby is due in about two weeks and I am undecided as to whether I should notify our parents when the baby arrives or wait a few months. What is your advice? — Infanticipating

Dear In: Notify your parents when the baby arrives. It is unrealistic to think you can keep an event like this a secret. If you attempt to lop off five months from the baby's age when you take him home, or when someone comes to visit, you will make a fool of yourself.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Studying, Combined With an Active social life, have brought many honors for Janet Carlson, sophomore at University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center. Among the most recent is the Carrie E. Morgan scholarship awarded to her by the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Alumni Association. The scholarship will pay tuition for her junior year at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Miss Carlson to Study On Morgan Scholarship

"The most important thing will enable her to attend the you learn in college is how to think for yourself," says Janet Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Carlson, 1907 S. Telulah Ave., student at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

But Miss Carlson evidently started using her head long ago, because in high school, she successfully combined her academic career with a full slate of extracurricular activities.

Reporting for the school paper, serving as student council representative and publicity chairman of Future Teachers of America, playing in the school band, helping in the gym, participating in Spanish club, Forensics and Pep club, and teaching Sunday school failed to prevent Miss Carlson from graduating 24th in a class of 629 in 1966 at Appleton High School-West.

Key To Success

Now, two years later with a college record that surpasses her high school performance, Miss Carlson has been selected recipient of the Carrie E. Morgan scholarship by the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Alumni Association. The award

University of Wisconsin, Madison, tuition-free for the academic year beginning in September. Miss Carlson's reaction? Surprise and happiness. "I didn't even know I was being considered for the scholarship," she confessed.

Miss Carlson attributes her success to her ability to budget time. "I'm a great one for organization," she explained. "And if I weren't, I'd never be able to do everything."

"Everything," in Miss Carlson's schedule at the Center has included serving as vice president of student senate, chairman of the student advisory committee, student delegate to the student life and interest committee, reporter for the student newspaper, a member of Spanish club, secretary of CONTACT, and a member of the social-coordinating committee.

Attracted by Challenge

As a freshman, she won first place on uneven parallel bars in a meet at the center. She also received a scholarship from Kimberly-Clark Corporation. This year she earned straight A's and membership in Sigma Miss Carlson plans to teach elementary school. As for her immediate future at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, she says she will let time determine the course her life will take there.

Determination Gives Lady Luck a Hand

BY ALICE HUCK
Post-Crescent Women's Edition

Maybe it's because the supposedly unlucky Friday the 13th was moved to Saturday because of the extra day in Leap Year.

Maybe it's because 13 is a good age to be if you're a girl. It means you're a "teen," a dramatic milestone in any young person's life.

Over and above the special reasons, Margaret Baumruk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baumruk, 813 E. Pacific St., had an extra one for being happy Saturday, the day she was 13.

She was home, surrounded by brothers and sisters and mother and father, and on the mend.

Margaret had a spinal fusion of nine vertebrae on Dec. 8. First, she felt lucky because she was able to be home for Christmas, although the doctor had told her the stay in the hospital in her revolving bed would be longer. Second, she has little pain, and third, she has been able to resume her schoolwork.

Margaret's mother doesn't consider her daughter's happy disposition all luck. She labels it "luck and determination". But to help over the long hours in a full body cast, the 13-year-old has two brothers and a sister, students at St. Joseph. When they're not around, she has the companionship of a hamster.

A homebound teacher also keeps Margaret busy. Although the cast is from her neck to her knee, she soon learned to roll into a position from which she can do most of her own writing. Other activities include crossword puzzles, tube painting, playing cards and, of course, television.

Margaret is looking forward to June when her body cast will be changed to a walking cast. In the meantime her parents are grateful that the whole procedure "wasn't as bad as they thought it would be."

Months in Bed isn't so bad for a big sister when she has these three happy faces checking in on her before and after school. Margaret, just turned 13 on Saturday the 13th, had nine vertebrae fused in December. With her are sister, Kathy, 11, and brothers, Roy II, 10 and Larry, 7. Above, when the children aren't around, a hamster, given to her by a friend, keeps Margaret company. (Post-Crescent Photos) ever-present hamster and at right, the television set is always available.

Designer's message: Enny, mini, midi and more! All designers agree that you should brace yourself for the new lengths to come! While some of them feel strongly that the midi length (below mid calf and only for a flared skirt) will be the next important length, they do agree that girls will not give up the mini length or shorter. So the message is, your length is your choice. Paris, London '68

Don't be Slave to Fashion When Selecting Jewelry

Earrings, watches and rings are high on the popularity list this spring.

Surprisingly, conservative type earrings are the best sellers, outdistancing the long swinging type because, actually, there are still many conservative people in the world. But the mod group will swing into spring with swingers in loud, hot colors.

The mod group also digs the go-go watches that come with wide bands in various bright hues. Colored watch faces with large Roman numerals also are available.

Also in fashion for spring are bold floral pins, enameled jewelry, pins, earrings and bracelets as well as floral earrings such as rose and daisy designs.

"With the mod group it's apparent that the earrings are getting longer as the skirts get shorter, but it might be good to pause and consider not so much following every fashion but selecting style that will do most for the individual," says J. O. Vann, a chain store jewelry buyer.

Making the Decision

"Carefully selected and tastefully worn costume jewelry can set the tone of any outfit. It is acceptable today and need not be expensive if it is well designed and attractive," he added.

To help you look your best when wearing jewelry, here are a few hints suggested by Mr. Vann:

Plan your selection for the time of day, and aim for individuality. A string of pearls is correct anywhere and at all times — school, a party or a formal affair. And bead necklaces make attractive, informal, daytime jewelry that can be used with great variety, "mixing or matching." Diamonds, rhinestones, rubies and sapphires are reserved for evening wear.

With a simple dress, wear a pin, (a gold pin is always smart when wearing a black frock) a large bracelet, or dangling earrings. On the subject of earrings, the new long swinging type are fun. However, if you want to minimize a long, narrow face avoid the extremely long style.

You can still get the same effect by wearing drop earrings that are squared or ball designs, and do not wear the extreme length if you have a short neck. Be sure they blend with or match your costume.

Remember that stone-studded elaborate jewelry is out when school or business is in, and should be reserved until after five.

The jeweled look adds to the excitement of social evenings. Shimmering stones come in many colors to match or blend with the many new spring fashion hues.

The way you wear your jewelry reflects your personality. Choose it with care, concludes Mr. Vann, and go forth to meet the glorious spring season and the admiring expressions of approval!

Brighten Up Vinyl

Before refurbishing vinyl window or shower curtains, make sure they are sewn instead of glued together.

Next, wash them with warm soap or detergent suds and rinses — either in a bathtub, deep washtub, or washer. This is essential to remove soil which would prevent the dye from "taking" evenly. Then follow directions on the dye package to the correct quantity and procedure.

Italians Moderate in New Fall Ready-to-Wear Lines

BY LENORA DODSWORTH FLORENCE, Italy AP) — Most Italian designers settle for a moderate line in the ready-to-wear collections for fall and winter they began showing in Florence today.

Emilio Pucci was the starter with a parade of beach and patio wear all in terry cloth, given status with the beautiful prints for which he is famous.

Most designers played safe by producing winterweight, budget priced versions of the lines they successfully showed for spring and summer.

Just above the knee was the average length.

'30s Repeat The '30s were evoked but not overplayed. Coats with contrasting or matching skirts and long suit dresses worn belted were about as far as most designers were prepared to go.

Lot of attention was directed to the waist area with seaming, cinching belts, pockets, buttons and buckles all contributing to give a more contoured and curvy look to the figure. Colors were quiet.

A certain schizophrenia over skirt length is in the air, summed up by the conflicting views "make them maxi" and "don't be rash."

Result? Extra inches sliced off and indecisive raising and lowering of hemlines.

First symptoms were noted several seasons back when the mini began to make its mark. Now the same scenes are being repeated in ateliers, but in reverse, with the maxi the new cause of head scratching.

Italian designers have seen their hemlines at least

Wisconsin D.A.R. Chapter Dedicates Museum Room

Mrs. Dorothy Richmond, vice-regent of the Appleton chapter of D.A.R., is attending the society's annual Continental Congress in Washington, D.C., April 14-20. Because of the hazardous conditions in the capital since the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., approval to proceed with the convention was not confirmed until Wednesday.

Mrs. Richmond was one of the hostesses for the dedication of the newly decorated Wisconsin Room in the museum section of the D.A.R. Memorial Continental Hall. The room has been the project of Wisconsin D.A.R. chapters for the past three years and was rebuilt into an authentic replica of the simple one-room dwelling of a colonial family of the 1600s. The reconstruction of the room was an $11,000 project; the antique furnishings are valued at $35,000.

The room was dedicated Sunday and opened for public inspection for the first time. Wisconsin D.A.R. members will be hostesses during the convention.

Mrs. C. J. West, an Appleton chapter member now residing in Arlington, Va., also will be representing the chapter at the dedication.

June Start Planned For New Armory

National Guard Facility Will Be on Appleton's West Side

Construction will hopefully begin on a new National Guard armory in Appleton sometime in June, Mayor George Buckley was notified today.

Malvin P. Wang, Madison, representing the adjutant general's office, disclosed the impending construction plans in a letter to the mayor.

Three years ago the city donated 20 acres of land in the old industrial park on the city's west side for an armory to serve the Fox Cities region.

When the federal government cut back on armory construction funds, the project was held in abeyance but apparently is now back on the priority list.

Contract From

"We wish to keep you informed relative to the construction of a National Guard armory in your city," Wang, superintendent of buildings and grounds for the National Guard, informed Buckley.

Wang disclosed that on April 8 notification was received from the National Guard Bureau in Washington asking for the contract form authorizing the architect and engineering funds for the project.

"At a meeting I attended last Tuesday in Minneapolis, we were told that this armory would definitely be built this year," Wang said.

All Prepared

Wang also informed Buckley that at the present time the drawings for the armory and vehicle service center are all prepared.

"We are working on the specifications, and we are in hopes that construction will

Grand Chute Rifle Shooting Ban Possible

Angered over a flagrant shooting incident Monday afternoon, Grand Chute Constable John Arft said today he may ask the town board to prohibit the shooting of rifles.

Arft said five Appleton teenagers were apprehended Monday afternoon after they allegedly shot at a group of youths catching snakes near the town dump.

A bullet went through a sweater that hung on the handlebar of one boy's bicycle, according to Arft. Other bullets reportedly struck near the youths' feet. The Appleton youths were using .22 caliber rifles.

The unarmed boys fled to a farmhouse and authorities were called. The youths who did the shooting are to report to the town hall with their parents tonight, Arft said. He explained that the youths were not old enough to legally carry the firearms without being accompanied by an adult.

Esler Re-elected by Outagamie Board

Wins on First Ballot Over 2 Opponents

Outagamie County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, this morning was re-elected to his second term as chairman. His re-election occurred on the first ballot when he turned back the challenge of two fellow Appleton supervisors, Eugene Kloes and Patrick Mares.

In companion elections, Supv. Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, was re-elected board vice-chairman without opposition, four new members were elected to the executive committee; all five highway committee members were re-elected and one standing committee was abolished and a new one created.

One new member also was elected on the committee on committees which was meeting this afternoon to recommend the membership on the standing committees.

A close three-way fight for the board chairmanship had been expected, but Esler, a veteran of more than 30 years on the county board, polled 25 votes on the first ballot, one more than he needed for election. Kloes was second with 17 and Mares had 5.

Full Support

Both Mares and Kloes offered Esler their full support in carrying out county programs over the next two years.

Four of the eight members to be elected to the executive committee were unanimous choices and there were few surprises in the balloting for the other four positions.

Supv. Norman Helms, District 45, a former board member who defeated Chris Roepcke to return to the board, was elected to represent the agriculture committee on the executive, defeating Supv. Henry Bretting, District 47, who was secretary of the agriculture committee last year.

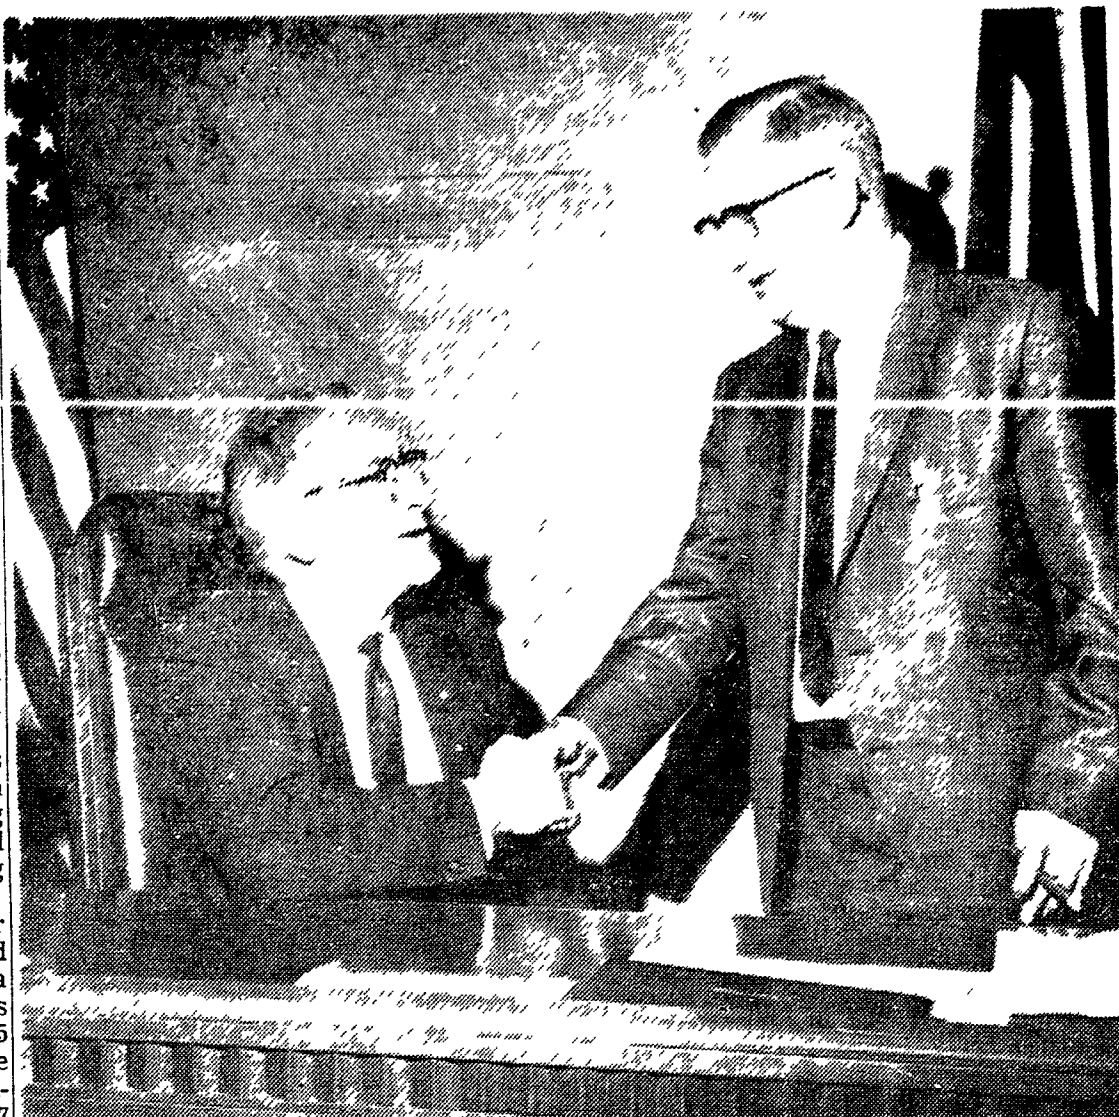

Helms had been vice-chairman of that committee when he previously served on the board. He replaces Stanley Perkins, who was defeated for re-election, on the executive committee.

Unanimous Choice

Supv. Norman Austin, Town of Oneida, was unanimously selected to represent the Board of Social Services on the executive committee, replacing Emmett Root who also was defeated for re-election.

Supv. John Dietz, Appleton, was re-elected to represent the airport committee, defeating Supvs. Charles Wussow, Appleton.

Appleton Wants School Taxes

Grand Chute Won't Pay

Appleton officials moved swiftly Monday night to force the Town of Grand Chute to pay $741,000 in back taxes due the public school district, or face possible penalties exceeding $100,000.

The city council's finance committee met at the city hall and recommended approval of a resolution introduced by Ald. John Steidl (18th) which directs City Atty. David Geenen to take legal action.

The move came after it was disclosed earlier in the day that Grand Chute failed to pay its $991,000 school levy by March 15 as prescribed by state law, and instead, sent a check to the treasurer for only $250,000.

Without Payment

Town Chairman Thomas Thorson told The Post-Crescent that Grand Chute would withhold further payment until the city changed its bookkeeping system with regard to income earned on investment of public school district funds.

In the meantime, Grand Chute is reportedly accruing interest on the money after having deposited it in an Appleton bank.

City Treasurer Ray Feuerstein, who also serves as school district treasurer, said he was bound under state law to collect all the Grand Chute tax levy.

As a result, a letter of demand was served on the town treasurer at his place of employment Monday afternoon by Geenen and Feuerstein, accompanied by two Appleton policemen.

In a further development today, Atty. Don Herrling, representing the town, asked for a meeting with city officials in a letter to Mayor George Buckley.

"It has apparently been the practice of the Appleton city treasurer to place all funds received from school taxes into the city general fund rather than a segregated school fund," Herrling wrote.

"This has also been true of the entire school tax amount paid by municipalities other than the city of Appleton, located in Appleton School District No. 10," he added.

Not Credited

Herrling alleged the interest on the tax money collected has benefited only the city and has not been credited to the general school fund "nor to the school tax burden of the member municipalities" of the district.

Citing it was a problem of "great concern" to the Town of

Bishop Wycislo Greets Diocese

'I Want to be With You in Mutual Trust and Concern'

Special to The Post-Crescent

GREEN BAY — "My beloved flock of Green Bay, I want to be a bishop with a wide vision of things in this diocese; I want to draw on the knowledge and talents of all who are willing to work with me."

With these words the eighth bishop of the Green Bay See accepted his official robe of leadership this morning at St. Francis Xavier Cathedral, Green Bay.

The Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, who arrived here Monday, extended his hand to receive the crozier, the pastoral staff in a simple but colorful ceremony and became the shepherd of a flock of more than 350,000 Catholics in the diocese.

First Family

After he received the shepherd's staff, the symbol of his authority, the new prelate appropriately said in his first homily here, "I am now your new bishop — the pastor of his people; pastor not in the connotation of superiority, and you in the connotation of dependency, but a shepherd who is with the flock."

"As shepherd, I want to be with you in mutual trust and concern."

In the short, moving sermon of acceptance, the new bishop, who had been auxiliary bishop of Chicago for eight years, reminisced, about the words said to him when he received his first crozier.

"I was told: Take this staff of the shepherd's office: that you may show zeal, tempered with mercy, in the correction of wrong-doing. Pass judgment without anger and tend gently the growth of virtue in the souls of your flock, without neglecting the calm reproof of vice."

That very same staff the apostolic delegate put into his hand this morning at the throne.

"And then the cardinal put this ring (the bishop's ring) on my finger and said: take this ring, token of the pledged word: yours it is, endowed with unshakeable fidelity, to preserve and guard in unblemished honor God's bride, Holy Church," Bishop Wycislo remembered.

Your Bishop

"Here I am your bishop. Am I your Church? It will take time to answer that question. Here I am, your chief priest, he who will preside at your altars. Will I be the whole of your life? What of the functions of my office? What is my place in this community?" the leader asked, more of himself than his new flock.

During the sermon he also added a note to the many who had hoped that they could have a voice in the selection of a new bishop.

"I am not insensitive to your desires," Bishop Wycislo said. "Some of you wanted one of your own. Perhaps I come to end an era: perhaps the choice of the next bishop might well be your own. But for now, I would like to work with you as if I had been your choice."

He went on to entreat the whole Green Bay Diocese to work together for peace and prosperity and understanding.

"Let's you and I look for new ways to being present to one another; new ways for your bishop to be with; to be present to his people; new ways for the laity to be present to the church so that together we will find new ways to be present to the world," he said.

"We know that peace is a person; it is Christ. If we are to have peace, we must move with Christ, so let us now begin together the source of our life, to move with Christ," the new leader concluded.

More Pride Needed

Aldermen Criticize Littering on Avenue

Downtown merchants and Appleton residents should take more pride in the "new" College Avenue and help eliminate littering, the city council's street-sanitation committee agreed.

The subject of downtown housekeeping again became one of the main topics at the committee's Monday meeting.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), committee chairman, also suggested that now was the time for the city to get an annual maintenance program started on the nine blocks of College Avenue.

"There will be annual work. We should get the job started out on the right foot," Pointer commented.

Maintenance Needed

Pointer said it took more than reconstruction and landscaping to preserve the nine-block area as a shopping showcase.

Stove Fire Reported At Fictitious Address

A false alarm at 2 a.m. today brought Appleton firemen to a "stove fire" at 913 E. Grant St. Firemen, who responded with four units, could find no stove fire. Nor could they find a 913 E. Grant St.

He noted that those merchants who keep the areas in front of their stores free of debris were doing a good job. However, he said with some others it was a different story.

At one point Pointer suggested the Boy Scouts might be asked to "police" the downtown periodically.

Civic Pride

"I think it should be a matter of civic pride for the merchants and residents of the community to want to keep the downtown district looking neat," Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) declared.

On the favorable side, it was noted the park department will start planting flowers on College Avenue the week before Memorial Day.

And in other developments related to College Avenue — Frank Keuler, public works director, said the project would be subject of a 30-minute critique at the annual conference of the Tri-State Chapter of the American Public Works Association at Moline, Ill. May 16 and 17.

—Two publications—Western related to College Avenue and American Cities Magazine — featured the street fire. Nor could they find a 913 E. Grant St.

National Science Foundation

Lawrence Gets $238,500 Grant

Lawrence University has been awarded a $238,500 National Science Foundation grant, according to an announcement Monday by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., in Washington.

Nelson said the grant was approved under the College Science Improvement Program, which is aimed at strengthening the science capacities of undergraduate institutions. Thirty-six grants in 20 states have been made since the program was established in 1966, including a prior grant of $180,000 to Beloit College.

Although Lawrence has received many NSF grants in previous years, totaling several times the new sum, this is the largest single award Lawrence has received from government sources.

Dr. Francis L. Broderick, dean of Lawrence and Downer colleges, who has been named project director for the grant, said:

"The science departments at Lawrence have tried to create imaginative and attractive programs for undergraduates in the natural and social sciences and have hoped to devote considerable effort and money toward new improvements over the next few years."

A Challenge

"The grant from the National Science Foundation comes as recognition of an existing program and as a challenge to use the grant, as we said in the proposal itself, to build on our current strengths and to strengthen areas of current weakness. The university is grateful to the National Science Foundation for both the recognition and the challenge."

The Lawrence proposal includes three major items — an extension of independent study programs, a revision of the teaching of mathematics for the sciences and a searching re-evaluation of the curriculum.

Under the extension of independent study, the Lawrence proposal asked for the financing of 10 joint student-faculty research projects to be conducted over the next three summers; additional scientific research equipment, and library additions such as back issues of professional journals and newspapers, more microfilm equipment, and two major reference files in anthropology, the Human Relations Area Files and the Catalogues of the Library of the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology. A reading room in Lawrence's science building also was sought.

Four specific areas of improvement are proposed in revising the teaching of mathematics for the sciences. They are developing new courses in mathematics for the social sciences, strengthening work in applied mathematics and integrating it into the curriculum, developing a program in mathematical statistics and numerical analysis and improving the computer center and the statistics laboratory.

Speaking of the re-evaluation of the curriculum, the Lawrence proposal stated, "We feel a strong need for a disruptive re-examination of our whole program in the natural and social sciences."

This is to be accomplished by a curriculum study committee of three members — a natural scientist, to be freed from teaching for a year to serve as principal investigator, a social scientist and a humanist. The work is scheduled to begin this summer with an intensive two-week exploration of the ground to be covered during the following year.

College Avenue Slides Needed

Frank Keuler, public works director, would like to borrow some 35 mm slides taken of College Avenue during and after the reconstruction last year.

Keuler announced Monday he will show several pictures at a conference of public works directors from Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa next month, and while the city had its own file, he could use more.

"I'd appreciate it if anyone has any slides if they would loan them to the city for a short time," Keuler said. "Anyone wishing to help out can contact my office."

Teen-Age Driver Cited Following Accident

KAUKAUNA — About $350 damage resulted and one driver issued a citation for failure to yield right of way following a two-car accident at Division and Lawe streets about 7:40 p.m. Saturday.

According to police, Dale Van Vreede, 17, 612 W. Ninth St., had stopped for an arterial on Division Street and pulled into traffic into the path of a car being driven north on Lawe Street by Howard Hoeft, 51, 417 Sixth St. Van Vreede was issued the citation.

School Entered, Ink Splashed on Doors and Walls; Money Stolen

KAUKAUNA — About $2 was reported stolen from a dispensing machine and ink was thrown against doors and walls following a break-in at St. Mary Catholic School, 112 W. Eighth St., sometime Saturday night.

Entry into the building was gained through a gym window. The ink, which was splashed along corridors in the school, was taken from a supply room. Police found one set of footprints in the spilled ink.

Senior Citizens Jam Hearing

OSHKOSH — A seminar for senior citizens, conducted here Monday by Sixth District Congressman William A. Steiger, filled council chambers at city hall with what may have been the largest rally of that population segment the county has seen in recent years.

Congressman Steiger announced the meeting as an opportunity to gain understanding of the programs and resources available for the aged.

Before the session ended, Golden Agers from Oshkosh had won the promise of a meeting in two weeks to discuss a senior citizen center with councilmen. Members of the county chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, had been advised to seek appointment of a housing authority to study the need for low rental housing here.

These two projects and a plea for social security formulas geared to cost of living increases emerged during a question and answer period. There were questions, too, on pending aids for prescription drugs, a major cost to senior citizens.

The impact of Monday's meeting seemed likely to be far reaching in this Winnebago County area of the Sixth District here little use has been made of federal programs beyond social security and medicare.

In the past four years, federal and state governments have provided more tools and resources than ever before in history to improve the lives of older people, William D. Bechill, U.S. Commissioner on aging, reminded the audience. He cited Medicare, Medicaid, the Economic Opportunity Act, the age discrimination in employment act, efforts to provide better housing, and the Older Americans Act.

"Just as awareness which now exists about the older population...and the widespread recognition that we can and must do a better job of meeting some of the needs," he said.

Bechill emphasized the importance of local effort. "These programs will only work if they have interest and dedication and people willing to commit themselves to doing something locally."

He and other speakers urged an inventory of existing facilities and services, a marshaling of governmental and senior citizen interests, and an evaluation of need.

Mrs. Mildred Zimmerman, state executive director of the division on aging, said "If you can find sponsors in your own community first, but you must educate your city councils in what you need."

Panelists in addition to Bechill and Mrs. Zimmerman included William Fries, area social security director, and Mrs. Rosalie Tryon, director of Fond du Lac area economic opportunity programs, with Lyle Walter, director of the Fond du Lac Senior Citizen Center.

Six years ago, Mrs. Zimmerman said, Wisconsin senior citizens listed income, health, housing, and leisure time activities as priority areas of need. Today, mobility and the rise in property taxes take precedence.

The change is indicative, to some extent, of what the future will require. Bechill noted that a predicted life expectancy in the future to age 100 will force major changes in attitudes toward what constitutes the length of a working life and retirement.

He said the Older Americans Act creates a partnership between federal government, the states, and their local and voluntary organizations. It is designed to improve the lives of older people and to research the future. It recognizes their material needs as well as their need for a place and a role in society, he said.

In the 30 months of its operation, 47 of 55 governmental jurisdictions have received funds — proof, he said, of widespread interest in the area of senior citizen concerns.

Each community, he said, should decide what kind of life it wants its older people to have. Each community must set realistic goals and implement their attainment.

The best programs, speakers emphasized, start in the home community with interested citizens, many of them senior citizens, and with interested local governments.

Bureau Seeks Indian Heirs Descendants to Share In $1.3 Million Land Settlement

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Bureau of Indian Affairs said today it is trying to locate about 8,000 descendants of the New York tribes who emigrated to Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan.

The Oneida, Stockbridge, Munsee and Brotherton groups are to share in a recent $1.3 million land settlement award, but the Indians will not receive their money, the bureau said, unless each individual in the family is a registered member of his tribe.

The payment is for lands in the Green Bay area taken by the federal government in the 1800s. Registration should be completed by July 1.

Pianist, Singer Round Out NM Concerts

NEENAH-MENASHA — The concert program for 1968-69 is complete and Jean Casadesus, pianist, and Edmond Karlsrud, a bass-baritone, are the artists who will round out the four concert season.

Casadesus will appear in January and Karlsrud in April. The specific dates are not firm yet, Mrs. Richard Sawtell, president, announced today.

It was previously announced that the Obernkirchen Children's Choir, directed by Edith Moeller, will open the new concert series of the Community Concerts Association series Nov. 16.

The Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze will appear March 12.

The brilliant young French pianist, Jean Casadesus, makes an annual American tour and these have included engagements with such major orchestras as the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Chicago Symphony.

After his most recent appearance in Chicago, Claudia Cassidy, columnist for the Tribune wrote, "Casadesus stepped out as a virtuoso. He had for the glittering, bouffant music the brilliance, the definition, the bite, and that indefinable charm of urbanity so much a part of the aristocratic world of French music, I double-check him 'Don't miss'."

In addition to his featured soloist work with symphonies here and on the Continent, Casadesus has appeared on CBS television, the Bell Telephone Hour and last February with his parents in an hour-long program called "The First Family of the Piano." He has recorded for Columbia Records.

For approximately half of each year, Jean Casadesus is artist in residence at Harpur College, the liberal arts wing of the State University of New York, Binghamton, N.Y.

Bass-baritone Karlsrud has performed in almost every phase of the world of entertainment, theatres, nightclubs, the concert stage and opera, with many stops for network radio and television.

A native of Montana, Karlsrud began as a law student at the University of Minnesota and later transferred to the Juilliard School of Music. While at Juilliard he became an active professional and organized the well known "Men of Song" quartet which appeared on top television shows of the day with such performers as Sid Caesar, Fred Allen and Milton Berle.

Karlsrud appears as soloist on the Bell Telephone Hour and Herb Shriner's "Pops Americana" symphony presentation.

Season tickets are available for the 1968-69 concerts. Memberships are $9 for adults and $4.50 for students. Interested parties are asked to call Mrs. John Helms.

Veterans Home Plans Okayed After Debate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The State Building Commission Monday voted to take three steps aimed at expanding the Grand Army Home for Veterans at King, Waupaca County, despite objections from a commission member that the plans were based on a long-range building program that has become "outdated."

Assemblyman Harvey Gee, R-Wisconsin Rapids, charged that the proposals, based on a building plan dating six years, not only had been outdated but was in part working in direct opposition to the wishes of the residents of the facility.

The commission backed the proposals of John Moses, director of the Department of Veterans Affairs, after telling Gee that the actions did not constitute final approval of the steps and that the objections of the residents were not directly involved in the decisions facing the state building agency.

Moses had asked the commission to approve three steps growing out of the planned expansion of the institution based on a long-range plan calling for an eventual enrollment of 1,500 residents.

Preliminary Plans
The first two steps, finally approved by the commission, allocate $16,000 from department funds for the preparation of preliminary plans for an activities building at the home. They also would update early designs dating from 1964, early in the planning stages for the building.

The third proposal, which was also approved by the group following an hour of debate, allocates an unspecified amount of funds for the securing of appraisals and options on 9.3 acres of land adjacent to the home for the construction of 48 cottages.

The cottages would supply duplex and multiple housing for married couples at the home. Eventually replaced under that long-range plan would be 39 cottages now being used at the home, some of which are more than 70 years old. All but six of these units are designed for single occupancy.

Gee protested that studies being conducted by legislative agencies, and changes in Social Security laws since the preparation of the long-range plan, have outdated that master program and that the three suggestions from Moses should be deferred for further study.

Currently under way are studies by an interim veterans' affairs committee of the 1967 legislature and of the legislative committee to visit state institutions, said Gee, which could alter the future of the Waupaca County facility.

Studies to date have shown that most of the residents of the home, which is open to veterans, their wives and mothers upon retirement, are drawn from the immediate vicinity of the facility, he said.

State policy may point toward the changing of long-range projections for the King home and the construction of a new facility in southeastern Wisconsin, where most of the state's population now lives, Gee warned.

All of the present residents of the cottages which will eventually be razed would prefer to remain in the single unit facilities rather than in multiple housing units or dormitory-type structures, he said.

Gee is a member of the legislative visiting committee and has toured the King installation.

State Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, told Gee that the proposal calls only for planning funds, and will not authorize destruction of existing cottages. The proposal is aimed only at the study of the purchases for an additional 9.3 acres of land for the new cottage additions.

Purchase Study
Moses said that the purchase study is necessary to determine if, by changing the proposed location for the structures, construction costs could be lowered.

The department hopes to construct six of the planned duplex units for $180,000, Moses said. A total of 48 eventually could be located on the site.

Residents cannot form an opinion as to the desirability of the new units until they see some in operation, Moses added.

In other actions the commission:

—Postponed indefinitely the purchase of a rooming house and property in Oshkosh which had been offered for sale by its owner to Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. The building site is not needed now, Martin told the subcommittee, and rooming house space for WSU-O students is needed by the school.

—Allocated $16,100 for the planning, and authorized construction of a $541,720 maintenance building at WSU-O.

Phone Calls Using Automatic Equipment Will Go Through

NEENAH-MENASHA — The nationwide telephone strike, which has been called inevitable for 2 p.m. Thursday, will have little immediate effect on routine automatic service, a spokesman for Wisconsin Telephone Co. said today.

All calls in the Neenah-Menasha area handled by automatic equipment should go through, but service involving personal handling, like person-to-person calls, and installations will be affected, he said.

Emergency procedures have been established to handle situations like the threatened strike, he said.

Some 200,000 workers in the country are affected by the bargaining, which has gone five days beyond the original strike deadline.

"It would take a miracle at this point to reach agreement without a strike against the Bell Telephone System," President Joseph A. Beirne of AFL-CIO Communications Workers said Monday.

The company spokesman said negotiations are continuing on a 24 hour basis.

Drexler Wins Again as Winnebago Chairman

OSHKOSH — A unanimous vote by acclamation today returned Joseph Drexler as chairman of the Winnebago County board for the 16th consecutive term.

Chairman Drexler, District 46, Oshkosh, organized today's session, told he anticipated giving more time to the board's business during the next two years.

"Now that I am retired from the wood and coal company, I am in position to offer the county board more of my time," he said, when accepting the office. "I will try to do my best to carry out your wishes to the best of my ability."

Orrin King, District 47, Oshkosh, was re-elected vice chairman by unanimous voice vote.

In the opening minutes of the session, Judge Herbert J. Mueller, County Branch I, administered the oath of office to 49 supervisors, including four newly-elected boardmen.

The new supervisors, elected on April 2, who were seated today, included Hubert Sherman, District 1, and Ted Neely, District 3, Menasha. They replaced veteran members Henry A. Jankowski and R. M. Sensenbrenner.

Robert C. Johnson, District 10, Larsen, replaced Frank Metzger. Herman Brandt, is the new supervisor for District 12, Towns of Omro and Utica. He defeated George Hunter.

One county board supervisor will be appointed today to fill the vacancy of the late Emil Ristow, District 42, Oshkosh. The board devoted the balance of the morning to procedural matters.

Appointment to Winnebago County board statutory committees was scheduled for the afternoon session.

Standing committees to be named include aviation, education and conservation, parks and recreation, finance, institution, judiciary, personnel, public building, civil defense, and sheriff, coroner and safety.

ton, and Paul Weyenberg, Kimberly, both companion members of the airport committee with Dietz last year.

Representing the new zoning committee will be Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan. DeBruin had formerly represented the parks and recreation committee. Taking his place from that committee will be Supv. G. Allen Bubolz.

Supv. Eugene Kloes was a unanimous choice from the courts and justice committee, replacing George Greisch who did not seek re-election to the board. Kloes had been committee chairman.

Supv. Russell DeLaHunt will again represent the health, education and institutions committee. He did not have opposition.

Supv. Patrick Mares, Appleton, won re-election from the public property and insurance committee, defeating Supv. Andrew Jimos, a fellow committee member.

A ninth member will be named from the highway committee. Supv. Patrick Heenan had represented that committee on the executive committee.

Five Members

All five highway committee members, Heenan, Ervin Conrad, Shiocion; I. A. Grunwaldt, Black Creek; Daniel Williams, Combined Locks, and George Kroes, rural Kaukauna, were re-elected.

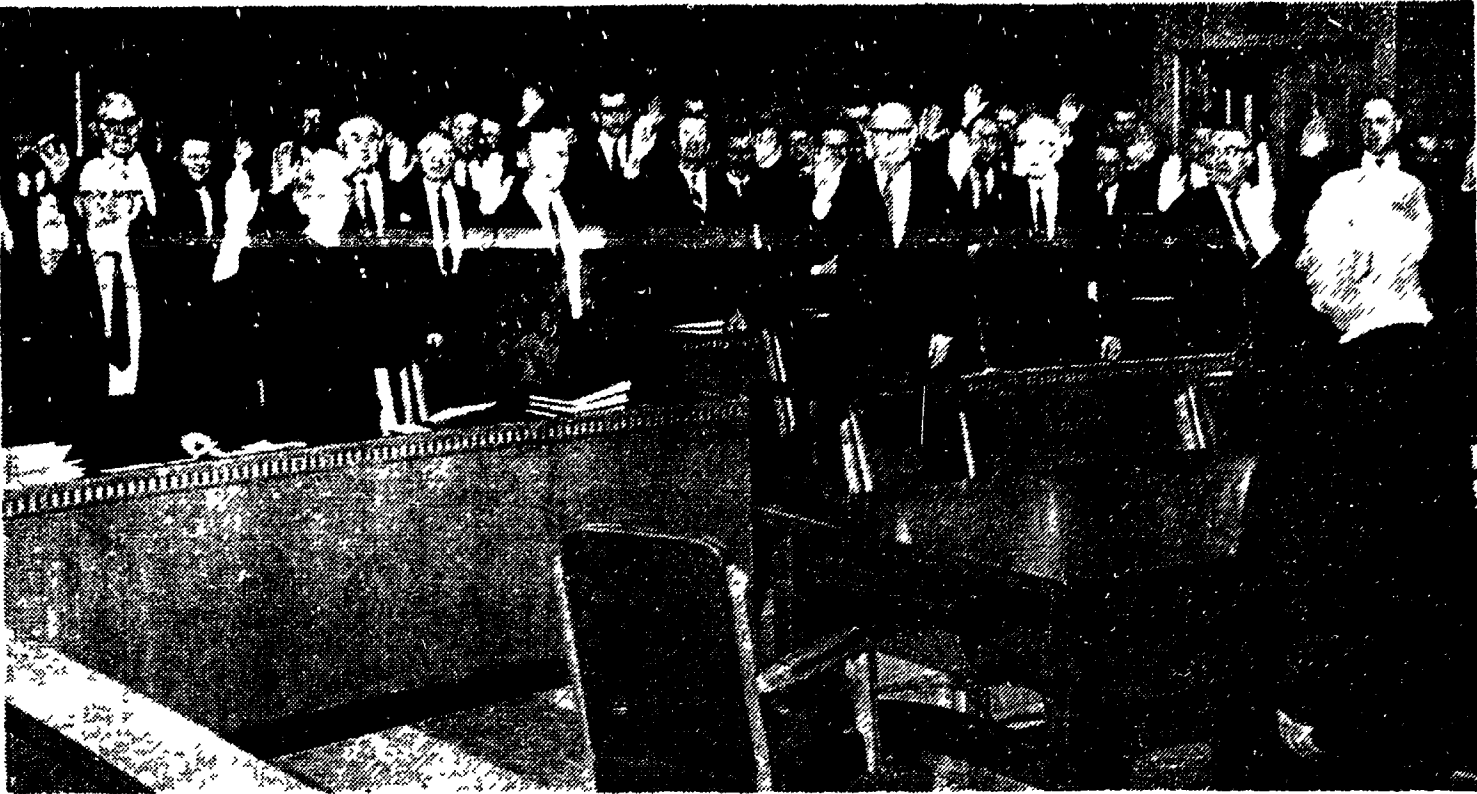

The board chairman and vice chairman are automatically members of the executive committee.

Elected to the committee on committees were Supvs. Merritt Kavanaugh, Kaukauna; Babbitt; Ed Spierings, Little Chute, and John Schreiter, Appleton. Esler, as board chairman, also is a member. Babbitt replaces Supv. Arthur Hollihan on the committee.

The committee on committees will recommend four members for each of the nine standing committees of the board. The representatives elected to the executive committee will automatically become either the chairman or the vice chairman of their respective committees. The appointments will be announced tomorrow morning.

Meeting Thursday

Artificial Lake Health Criteria Study Sought

Another meeting aimed at establishing health criteria for man-made swimming lakes has been set for Thursday with state health officials.

The meeting — requested by the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) — is expected to be attended by representatives of COG, the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, McMahon Associates Inc., eMnasha, and State Division of Health officials.

COG and the regional planning commission are working with several communities or counties in designing these man-made swimming lakes, a type of facility cheaper than a pool and capable of greater load capacity.

Several ponds have been constructed but the state has not established criteria for health and safety standards. Arno Haering, COG planner, indicated some communities may be hesitant to build ponds without this criteria.

Earlier Meeting

An earlier meeting at Kimberly with Kenneth Bjorklund, Associate public health engineer, failed to produce any specific standards. Haering said he hopes the meeting Thursday will at least reveal what the local communities and planning groups can do to satisfy the state health division.

Harvey E. Wirth and Robert D. Hill, top health division officials, will also attend the meeting.

Concern over the state health division's position on these man-made swimming lakes developed when Kimberly learned early in March the state was hesitant about approving any more such projects. Black Creek and Seymour have man-made lakes. Bjorklund then indicated at the March 25 meeting that the state had not rejected possible new projects but also had not established definite criteria for the lakes.

COG Design

Haering asked for the earlier meeting since COG had designed the Kimberly park site in which the pond will be located. McMahon is preparing the engineering work for the pond.

Haering said Kimberly officials apparently want a state expression on man-made lakes for swimming before a Kimberly referendum in May on the topic. Kimberly has received a $37,600 Department of Housing and Urban Development grant for half the cost of the park land for the lake.

The regional planning commission has been working with Winnebago and Outagamie counties on proposed park land man-made swimming lakes.

Soldier Square Landscaping Delay Sought

Parking Commission Awaits Decision on Pedestrian Walk

Planting of shrubs and trees around Soldiers Square parking ramp should be deferred until the city council decides when it will undertake a pedestrian walk project nearby, officials said Monday.

The recommendation was made at a meeting of the parking commission at the city hall as it wrapped up its business for the legislative year ending this Wednesday.

The decision to hold up landscaping on Oneida, Lawrence and Morrison streets and the north side of the ramp came after the commission received a report that beautification would cost $1,200.

No Strong Feelings

Commissioners said they had "no strong feelings either way at this time" on landscaping but felt something should be done eventually.

Ald John Ayers, council president and commission member, said construction of a pedestrian walk in Soldiers Square was on the council's 1969 list of improvements.

However, Ayers said there was a possibility the project might be undertaken sooner — depending on circumstances.

Development Plan

The central business district phase of the city's comprehensive plan calls for developing the pedestrian mall adjacent to the north side of the multi-level ramp.

Soldiers Square has been termed "an eyesore" by some, while several area property owners claim it should remain the same so as to not eliminate the 20 or more street-level parking stalls at the rear of their shops.

On another matter, the commission denied a request of the Appleton Post Office to provide 10 parking spaces without charge on the top level of the West Ramp, noting that it would be in violation of the terms of the bonding ordinance.

Thanks Citizens

William Johnson and W. A. Close, citizen members of the commission, said they enjoyed serving on the commission. Their terms expire this week.

Boy Hurt When His Bike Runs Into Car

Daniel R. Bruner, 14, 603 N. Division St., suffered abrasions to his left knee and right arm when his bicycle struck a car at S. Oneida and W. Water streets about 4:25 p.m. Monday.

Police said the boy was not hospitalized. He was southbound on Oneida when he struck the right rear fender of a car driven by Stella M. Lutz, 2500 S. Oneida St., who had just turned onto Oneida from Water.

Police said the brakes did not work on Bruner's bicycle.

Grand Chute Refuses to Pay Back Taxes

Grand Chute, Herrling said Thorson had authorized him to request a meeting with city officials to discuss the matter at their earliest convenience.

Appleton officials said the alleged violation of the law by the Town of Grand Chute was "also of grave concern" to them. They pointed out Section 74.22 of the statutes sets fourth penalties for failure to pay taxes.

It says if taxes are not paid on time the town, city or village treasurer is subject to 5 per cent damages and 10 per cent interest per annum from the date payment should have been made.

After Demand

And the law further says if tax payments are withheld by the town, city, or village treasurer after a demand has been served on him, he is subject to 10 per cent damages and 10 per cent interest.

The law further states the damages and interest can be collected by action instituted against the town treasurer's bond.

City officials said the Town of Grand Chute treasurer is bonded.

More than a year ago the town threatened court action when it was discovered interest proceeds from school construction bond issues were not being put in the school district fund to offset part of the next year's levy.

The city checked its files and rectified the matter, turning several thousand dollars over to the school fund to help lower the town's school levy payment in the ensuing year.

Stolen Auto Hits Bridge

Tender's Building Damaged; Car May Have Been Empty

A car apparently stolen from an Appleton auto agency early today was extensively damaged when it struck the bridge tender building at the bridge on the foot of the S. Lawe Street hill.

An Appleton police patrolman found the wrecked auto about 3:05 a.m. today. A license check revealed that the auto was registered to Allen J. Goodearle, 1201 W. Brewster St.

Goodearle told police that he had left the 1966 auto at Van Steen Ford Motors, Inc., Monday morning to have work done on the engine. Goodearle, who was contacted at his home early today, said he saw the car on the auto agency's W. Washington Street lot about 11:30 p.m. Monday.

He told police that an $80 camera was missing from the vehicle.

Police said that entry into the auto was gained by forcing a front vent window. The ignition switch was tampered with to get the engine started. The car apparently had been driven about five miles after it was stolen.

Police believe the car was driverless when it slammed into the bridge tender's building and a nearby light post. The auto may have been abandoned at the top of the Lawe Street hill, police said. If anyone had been in the auto when it crashed, he would have been injured, according to police. There was no blood in the car.

There was extensive damage to both the car and the small building.

City Firm Loses $15 to Burglars

About $15 was taken in a burglary Monday night at Fox Valley Foods, Inc., 1101 E. Wisconsin Ave.

Appleton detectives said entry was gained by prying a lock off the rear freezer door. The burglar then forced a door leading to the offices.

The money was taken from two desk drawers that were ransacked, detectives said. Further investigation was underway today.

Outagamie Board Creates New Committee on Zoning

The Purchasing and General Accounts Committee of the Outagamie County board was disbanded and a new zoning committee was created in its place Tuesday morning.

Supervisors voted 35-12 to transfer the duties of the purchasing committee to the executive committee and to create the new committee to meet the growing zoning and land use planning needs of the county.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan, who pushed for the adoption and will be a member of the new committee, said the county was in great need of organized planning and zoning. The zoning situation is now a hodge-podge, he said.

Too Much Work

Opposition to the plan came from Supv. John Schreiter, Appleton, who felt the executive committee was being overloaded with work. There has been a great increase in the work load of the purchasing committee recently, he said. He added that he wondered how much more could be passed to the executive committee without jeopardizing the time of the committee members.

The existing zoning committee will remain as a board of adjustments to handle zoning appeals. That committee consisted of two county board members and one citizen member.

The new committee would be charged with developing land use zoning plans and handling petitions for zoning changes.

Defeat Orioles, 6-3 Torrid Twins Head For First Home Tilt With 5-Game Streak

BY DICK COUCH
Spring has been a little late this year in Minnesota, but a heat wave is on the way.
Big Bob Allison and the torrid Twins are coming home.
While temperatures hovered around the freezing mark in Minneapolis - St. Paul Monday night, Allison continued his early-season hitting binge with two doubles and a triple at Baltimore as the unbeaten Twins whipped the Orioles 6-3 for their fifth straight road victory.
Allison led American League hitters with a .550 average and the Twins topped the AL standings as they headed back to Minnesota for Wednesday's home opener against Washington.

The Senators blanked California 7-0 behind Camilo Pascual's six-hit, nine-strikeout pitching and the Oakland A's downed the New York Yankees 6-3 in American League day games. Detroit and Boston were rained out and Cleveland and Chicago were not scheduled.
Allison doubled in the second inning, tripled in the fourth and doubled again in the sixth—giving him eight hits in nine at-bats—before going out in his last two trips to the plate. The former Kansas fullback, who drove in one run and scored two, has one 11-for-20 over-all, with four doubles, one triple and one homer.

For Welterweight Crown Cokes, Ludick Scrap Tonight

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Welterweight champion Curtis Cokes and challenger Willie Ludick of South Africa expect to weigh in at around 146 pounds each for their 15-round title fight tonight.
Cokes, declaring "I have no problems" and thinking only of getting the fight over so he can take some more lucrative bouts that will pay for a restaurant he is installing in Dallas, said he would probably be down to 145 but might hit 146.
Ludick, getting his first professional fight away from home—he has had 29 fights, winning 27 of them—said he weighed exactly 147 Monday night.
Both said they were in the peak of condition.
"I expect to win it," said Cokes, "because I feel that I want to win more than Ludick. I want to keep my championship for a couple of years, then I'll retire at 32 with enough money to do the things I want to do, like operating this restaurant that's going to cost me $250,000."
Opportunity Knocked
Ludick said he was just as anxious to win as Cokes because it is his big chance to bag the title in appreciation for his friend, David Levin, the South African promoter who put up the money to make the fight possible.
Levin is the co-promoter along with Norm Levinson of Dallas. The fight starts at 9:08 pm (CST) at which time television over 28 stations in the nation will start.
Tommy Roberts of Price-Roberts Sports Productions, which is televising the fight, said plans to carry it into Mexico City via tape had fallen through. So the telecast will be confined to the United States. There will be no radio coverage.

Weis' Misplay Ends Longset Major League Night Game

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Rusty Staub said things started getting pretty funny around the 17th inning. Roy Hofheinz officially sanctioned the humor of the situation five innings later.
Two innings before the longest night game in major league history ended in the Astrodome Monday night with Houston a 1-0 victor over the New York Mets—who else?—the following legend appeared on Astros' owner Hofheinz' psychedelic scoreboard:
"The judge says he's ready to go to bed... let's score a run."
"After about the 17th inning, everything sort of got funny," said Staub, who batted nine times in the six hour, six minute contest. The game outlasted by two innings the longest night game played previously, a 6-5 American League victory for Washington over Chicago last year.
"That was a three-package-of-tobacco game, and I've just got one chew left," said catcher-coach Buddy Hancken of the Astros.
Typical Fashion
The game mercifully came to an end in typical Metsian fashion, with an error letting in the run after eight pitchers had battled valiantly to preserve the scoreless deadlock.
In the only other National League games played, Los Angeles rallied heroically to beat Pittsburgh 3-2 and St. Louis topped Atlanta 4-3 in 10 innings.
Shortstop Al Weis let a grounder off the bat of Bob Aspromonte go through his legs and that sent in Norm Miller, who led off with a single and advanced on a balk by Les Rohr and an infield out.
"No, it didn't take a bad hop," said Weis afterwards. "I just blew it. It went right through my legs."
Tom Seaver was the first of the Met hurlers, giving up just two hits in 10 innings and retiring 22 batters in a row after the third inning.
Don Wilson did almost as well in the first nine innings for Houston, but was long gone by the time Wade Blasingame, the fifth Houston pitcher, was officially declared the winner.
The Dodgers won in a finish that would have made a writer of juvenile sports fiction blush. Bob Veale was breezing along on a one-hitter into the ninth, but Jim Lefebvre's two-out, two-run homer beat him.
The first Los Angeles run of the inning, scoring on an infield out, was only the second scored in 44 innings this season. Until then, the Dodgers seemed likely to absorb their fourth shutout defeat in the five-game-old season.

$5 Per Share Milwaukee NBA Club Places Stock on Sale

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Shares in Milwaukee's new professional basketball club are being made available to the public by Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services Inc., operator of the franchise.
An application has been registered with the state for sale of 300,000 shares of common stock at $5 a share, Thomas Nelson, the state's securities commission, said Monday.
Nelson said sales are to help the franchise owners with a $500,000 payment due National Basketball Association members May 1, and for working capital.
If all 300,000 shares are sold, the corporation could realize about $1.38 million after payment of fees.
The stock sale is to begin April 24 with Loewi & Co. Inc. of Milwaukee as the managing underwriter. William Liebman, Loewi president, is one of the organizers of the franchise corporation.
480,000 Common
Nelson said 25,000 shares, in addition to the 300,000-share offer, are being set aside for Loewi. The franchise corporation has 480,000 shares of common stock, of which 115,000 are currently outstanding.
Among the holders of the 115,000 shares are Wesley D. Pavulon, who was named Monday as chairman of the board of the franchise group, and Ray A. Patterson, who was named president.
Pavulon had indicated in January that his group was considering "some type of public participation" in the basketball team.
Milwaukee and Phoenix were awarded expansion franchises for the 1968-69 season, expanding the NBA to 14 teams.
Nelson said it appears the stock sale will be confined to Wisconsin residents.
The former Milwaukee Braves, whose franchise was transferred to Atlanta after the baseball club was acquired by a Chicago group, had only about 6 per cent public ownership.
Shares being sold publicly, Nelson said, will be voting shares, allowing holders to have a voice in selection of directors. There is a provision, however: The NBA has to approve any change in directors.
The Milwaukee club's public stock move is not new to Wisconsin, although it is unusual in the NBA. The Green Bay Packers of the National Football League have nearly 1,700 stockholders.

Most observers look for the bout to go the full 15 rounds, with Cokes favored about 9 to 5 to win and retain his title in his fourth defense of the crown since he won it in 1966.
Cokes will get $50,000 or 40 per cent, whichever is greater, while Ludick will receive 15 per cent of all moneys.

Record Turnout at Hearing

Outagamie Will Seek Major Deer Hunting Liberalization

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor
Outagamie County's problem with a bulging deer population took the spotlight at the Conservation Congress hearing held at the Courthouse Monday night.
The meeting attracted a record turnout of 126 sportsmen who generally favored the various proposals offered for rule changes regarding to hunting and fishing regulations in the state.
An overwhelming majority raised their hands in approval of the general deer hunting season which was proposed for the state and also favored an increase in the number of party permits to be issued.
However, a special resolution was adopted and passed by a big, 87-5 majority asking that the county's delegates to the district and state hearings request a major liberalization in deer hunting regulations for this county. Proposed was the motion that the county be included in the eastern agricultural zone which allows two days of "any-deer" shooting the first two days of the season and then bucks and party deer the remainder of the hunt.
Also included in the motion was the proposal that starting with the 1969 season, Outagamie County be granted a 2-man party permit system. This has been proposed in the past, not only for this county but for other areas of the state as well where there is an overabundance of deer, but the measure never has been brought before the legislature.
Several farmers from the northern and northwest part of the county attended the hearing and complained about the heavy deer population, crop damages and trouble caused by hunters during the regular season.
Although there will probably be an increased number of party permits available in management unit No. 63 for the 1968 season, conservation ward-en Dale Morey explained that this would not be an effective way of reducing the deer herd in this area. Morey pointed out that last fall not all the permits available were used by hunters. Several other local issues were proposed including a resolution by the Osborne Conservation Club asking that laws be updated requiring deer hunters to have at least a portion of their outside clothing the color of blaze orange. There was a 78-0 approval of this proposal.
In other action, there was approval for a plan to set the legal hours for checking traps back from 6 to 7 p.m. and another resolution requested a hook and line fishing season for sturgeon on Lake Winebago and connecting waters during September and October.
Statewide proposals that were approved included another early deer hunting season next fall, combining the smallmouth and largemouth bass opening dates for fishig in Lake Michigan, having an experimental dove hunting season in the southwestern part of the state and a rule requiring small game hunters to wear a back tag.
A proposal to have a dawn opening for the waterfowl season, instead of noon was defeated by a 30-39 vote.
A proposal asking the group's opinion about a 16-day deer hunting season rather than the traditional 9-day season was passed by an 80-15 margin.

John Coatta, University of Wisconsin football coach, Monday night lauded members of the All-Fox Cities football and basketball teams for their achievements but cautioned them not to let up.
"You exemplify the good things in your school... you have reached the pinnacle of success in high school," said Coatta at the Little Chute Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored banquet in the Darbois Club.
"Our whole society is built on competition. Every day, it goes on, and you've got to be better than you were the day before," the UW coach indicated.

Monday night Don started with a 227 game, then bombed a 265 and finished with a 216. He needed a mark in the last frame of his final game to push past the 700 mark. He proceeded to pick up nine pins, and then spared to assure him of the national set. On his final ball he got eight pins.

"Getting into the college of your choice is competitive," Coatta stressed. A good athlete also has to be a good student, he pointed out. "Many haven't prepared themselves academically."

Physical and mental preparation go hand in hand, the speaker advised the 30 honored athletes and the other guests.

These three ingredients in a formula for success were presented to the athletes by Coatta: "1. Believe in God. 2. Obey your parents. 3. Listen to your teachers."

Commending the athletes, Coatta said, "You aren't just the average people of your school. The average guy won't dedicate himself to an activity like athletics." It takes courage to put yourself on public display and fight the individual battles that must be won if your team is to be successful, the coach told the youths.

The second annual Little Chute Jaycees' Youth Leadership award went to "Rocky" Bleier. The 1967 Notre Dame football captain was unable to attend, so his father, Robert, accepted the award for him.

Manitowoc's Dale J. Brasser, national director of the Wisconsin Jaycees, lauded the Little Chute chapter for its program and said the unit would receive the "Blue Chip" award in the near future.

The master of ceremonies was Channel 11 Sports Director Jim Irwin.

Football players honored were Menasha St. Mary's Mark Pozinski, Mike McClone and Bill Heimerman; Kaukauna's Jim Pomeroy; Appleton East's Steve Utchig and Cliff Tierney; Neenah's Don Jankowski, Kevin Milliken, John O'Brien and Stan LaBelle; Appleton Xavier's Wayne Hayostek, Dan Kennedy and Brad Graff; Little Chute St. John's Chuck Peeters, "Oscar" Schuler, Steve Hietpas and Leon Biesterveld; Menasha's Dave Day and Tom Scovronski; Fox Valley Lutheran's Dan Haase; and Kimberly's Jeff Vanden Heuvel and John Vander Velden.

Basketball players who received the same awards as the Little Chute JC's and certificates from The Post-Crescent, which picked the teams — were Xavier's Pat Fitzgerald and Mike Clark; Kimberly's Don Hagany; Appleton West's Tom Hintz; Neenah's Dale Magedanz and Dan Jankowski; Appleton East's Tom Jones; Kaukauna's Dennis Spice; St. Mary's Mike McClone and St. John's Rick Van Roy.

six hits himself, and retired 19 batters in a row at one stretch, was the winner. Veale didn't allow a hit until the fifth when Rocky Colavito singled.

And in yet another last-inning finish, Johnny Edwards came up with a pinch single that drove in the winning run for the Cards. Pat Jarvis and Bob Gibson had dueled 1-1 into the seventh when Hank Aaron's homer gave Atlanta a one-run bulge.

But Roger Maris drove in two runs in the eighth for the Cards with a double and not till Dal Maxvill singled in the 10th and rode home on Edwards' single was the game decided.

Previously, the longest night game ever played was Washington's 6-5 victory over Chicago on June 12, 1967 that took 22 innings. The longest National League night game was played Sept. 1, 1967, when San Francisco beat Cincinnati 1-0 in 21 innings.

The game also broke the record for time consumed by a National League night game, taking six hours and six minutes to complete. The previous mark was set in the marathon Giant-Red contest of last year, which took five hours, 40 minutes.

The longest night game in terms of time was the lengthy Senators-White Sox, contest last year that took six hours, 38 minutes.

Longest Game
The longest game ever played took seven hours and 23 minutes when the Giants beat the Mets 8-6 on May 31, 1964.

Both teams mounted threats in the extra innings, several times getting runners to third, but each time the pitchers worked out of the jams.

The eight New York pitchers fell just one short of the record number of pitchers ever used in a game. Cincinnati used nine in a game against the Astros in 1962, the second game of a doubleheader that lasted a mere 13 innings.

In the 12th, the Mets had three hits, singles by Jerry Grote, Weis and Boswell, but Julio Gotay threw out Tommie Agee to end the inning with bases loaded. The Mets also put men on third in the 17th and 19th inning to no avail.

The Astros advanced runners to third in the 13th and 22nd innings, but Ron Davis popped up ending the former threat and Gotay struck out ending the latter.

Seaver was in trouble early on when rookie catcher Hal King hit a long double in the third and went to third on a wild pitch. But Bob Aspromonte grounded to Boswell at second.

8 Franchises Set Professional Boxing League Established

CHICAGO (AP) — Plans to form a professional boxing league with fighters getting group insurance, pensions and other benefits were unfolded Monday.

Franchises in eight cities including Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston, Louisville, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and

Washington, D.C., were announced by sports commentator Jack Drees.

Groups are working in New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta and Miami to become members, revealed Drees, one of the owners of the Chicago franchise.

The organization will be known as the International Boxing League, Inc., and hopes to begin operations this fall.

Boxers will be placed under an annual contract ranging from $8,000 to $15,000," Drees said. "There will be no managers. The contract will be owned by the team for which he competes. Group insurance, pensions plans and other benefits are included."

Each team will carry a squad of 15 fighters, three for each weight division. Teams will compete for divisional championships with champions meeting for the league title. All bouts will be six rounds.

we played in cold weather here," he said. "Now we're ready for home. I understand it was 28 there today."

At Washington, Pascual became the only active American League pitcher to reach the 2,000 strikeout mark when he fanned the Angels' Chuck Hinton in the fourth inning.

The 34-year-old right-hander, who missed the last three weeks of the 1967 season after breaking his left ankle in a game to California, finished the year with a total of 2,007 strikeouts and the 33rd shutout of his career.

Ken McMullen and Sam Bowers homered for the Senators who wrapped up the victory with a five-run burst in the fifth.

Ramon Webster drilled a triple and homer, driving in three runs, and rookie Reggie Jackson delivered two more with a double and homer as the A's pounded Yankee ace Mel Stottlemyre.

John "Blue Moon" Odom checked New York on five hits until the ninth, when Tom Tresh clipped him for a two-run homer.

Does It Cost More Here?

A reasonable question . . . for we do have a modern, well-equipped, efficiently staffed and adequately furnished office.

But did you know that we would have to charge exactly the same price for our insurance if we operated out of a "hole-in-the-wall" office, or from behind a stand-up booth with no office?

That's right!

The Insurance Commissioner sets the price. He won't let agents charge more, or less, regardless of their facilities, or lack of them.

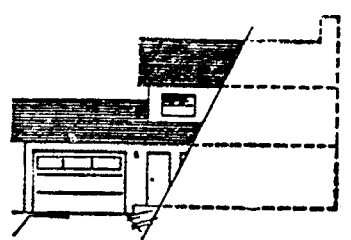

Our facilities are better than most, only because we spend more money to provide you the best available anywhere.

Wouldn't you rather have the best at the same price? Of course you would.

So come on in soon and see either Mary, Ina, Norm or Dobbie!

Fox Valley Anglers Taking Advantage of 3-Fold Bonanza

By JIM HARP
Outdoor Editor
The Post-Crescent

APPLETON (AP) — Many state anglers are waiting patiently for the opening of Wisconsin's general statewide fishing season May 11, but fishermen in the Fox River Valley are currently taking advantage of a three-fold bonanza and reaping some prize piscatorial rewards.

The East Central part of Wisconsin is unique in that the Wolf River system, including the Lake Winnebago waterways, is open to fishing the year around. Anglers in this area also are located relatively close to the Lake Michigan shoreline which is gaining rapid fame for early fishing as well.

At the present time, anglers can pick fishing for walleyed pike on the Fox and Wolf rivers, trolling for sauger or sand pike on Lake Winnebago or trying for a prize rainbow or brown

Goalby Doesn't Want Golf Rules Changed

Says Masters Win Won't be Worth $1 Million

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia got off the plane Monday one step ahead of Bob Goalby. But Maddox is only a governor, and Goalby is Masters champion, so the crowd wasn't interested in the governor.

Goalby was returning to his Belleville, Ill., home, just across the Mississippi River from St. Louis. He had just won the Masters Golf Tournament Sunday when Roberto De Vicenzo signed an incorrect scorecard and blew his tie with Goalby.

Maddox was coming to St. Louis to attend a conference of Democratic governors.

"He (Maddox) just got off the plane ahead of me," Goalby said, "and he was smiling and waving his hand. He thought they were there for him."

"They weren't."

"I didn't even know who he was," Goalby went on. "After it happened, we were introduced and they took pictures of us together. One of the TV sports announcers said he could hardly wait to get back to his studio and tell everybody who the most popular people are."

Fringe Benefits

Goalby pocketed a $20,000 check for the victory and could look forward to all the fringe benefits that go with the Masters championship. Some people estimate a golf pro can pick up $1 million for a victory in the Masters.

"I don't think it's really worth that much money," the 38-year-old golfer said. "It might be to a guy like Arnold Palmer, but I doubt it's worth that much to other guys. In any case, I don't know what I'm going to do. I'll just have to wait and see what happens."

"I was elated with the outcome of the Masters, of course, though I'm sorry about what happened to Roberto," Goalby added. "But that's really secondary. I have to look at it from my point of view."

"Players sign the wrong score cards every week. It usually doesn't happen to one of the players at the top and never in a tournament as big as the Masters."

"I was paired with Roberto Saturday and he went through his card a lot quicker than I did," the Illinois University graduate recalled. "I'm very careful with my card. He barely looked at his."

"In fact, he was finished with his card before I had even started on mine. He told me that it was the first time something like that ever happened to him."

"He said he just looked at the card and he saw the numbers, and they all ran together and he couldn't make any sense out of them," Goalby said. "I think I know what he means, because of the excitement and all. I guess he just wasn't paying attention and forgot."

"But I don't think the rules should be changed," Goalby contended. "I don't mean that I necessarily agree with all of them, but they make the rules and I play by them."

Yesterday's Stars
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PITCHING—Don Wilson, John Buzhardt, Danny Coombs, Jim Ray and Wade Blasingame, Astros, combined to blank New York for 24 innings as Houston nipped the Mets 1-0 in the longest night game in major league history.

BATTING — Jim Lefebvre, Dodgers, smacked a two-run ninth inning homer off Pittsburgh's Bob Veale to give Los Angeles a 3-2 victory.

With A's at Yankee Stadium
DiMaggio Greeted by Many Old Friends on His Return

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe DiMaggio's old No. 5 has been retired for all time at Yankee Stadium. A chunk of the Yankee Clipper's pinstriped uniform hangs in a place of honor with Babe Ruth's No. 3 and Lou Gehrig's No. 4.

But DiMaggio was back in action at the big Stadium Monday afternoon, wearing the Kelly green and Fort Knox gold uniform of the Oakland Athletics. He had the white kangaroo shoes, too, and the familiar No. 5 was on his back.

It wasn't exactly a fit day for a homecoming for an old hero. A Monday afternoon, clouds hanging low and only a few fans (8,579) in the stands.

Joe D. stood near the batting cage, shaking hands with old friends and talking about his new job as executive vice president and coach for the transplanted A's.

"The most heartwarming thing that happened to me," DiMaggio said, "was the way all the old employees come up to me and wished me luck."

How did DiMaggio feel, pulling against the Yanks after all those years on the other side? "Look, I know all these kids or 90 per cent of them. Mickey is a great guy. He's an old friend, and I hope he plays for years and hits plenty—but not against our club."

If it seems strange to old Yankee fans that a folk hero comes back to town in an enemy uniform, don't blame Joe D. When a fellow asked Joe how close he had been to returning to the Yanks, he shook his head and said: "Nobody ever asked me."

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW.

By John Behnke

Some baseball fans go a whole lifetime without ever seeing a triple play—but fans who attended a minor league game in Ponca City, Okla., June 28, 1957 had the unusual experience of seeing not only one triple play, but two of them—in successive innings!

The first triple play came in the last half of the first inning, and then there was another one in the top half of the second!

What was the worst beating a pitcher ever took in one inning in big league baseball history? ... Well, there was a poor fellow named Tony Mullane who pitched for Baltimore in 1894 ... In one inning that season he was allowed to stay on the mound while 22 men came to the plate! ... He gave up seven walks, 12 hits and 16 runs in that one inning!

Here's an interesting quiz for you ... The following sports stars had movies made about their lives—Knut Rockne, George Gipp, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Ben Hogan ... Now see if you can name the actors who took the part of each of these sports stars ... Rockne was played by Pat O'Brien ... Gipp by Ronald Reagan ... Ruth by William Bendix ... Gehrig by Gary Cooper ... And Hogan by Glenn Ford.

I bet you didn't know ... We now have a good selection of walk shorts. Permanent crease with Ban-Rol, the quality feature that prevents waistband roll over.

NLRB Trials, Elections, Hearing Set
Fox Valley Firms Involved in Labor Disputes

The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has scheduled a series of hearings, trials and elections for a group of Appleton and area firms.

They will be conducted by representatives of the 13th regional office of the NLRB, Chicago.

Teamsters Charges
On Friday there will be a hearing in Appleton on charges preferred by Teamsters Local 563 against Graebel Moving & Storage. The union requested recognition from the firm but received no reply.

Also scheduled at Appleton is an NLRB trial May 8, arising out of a dispute at Combined Paper Mills, Inc.

The same day there will be a major representation election at the Niagara, Wis. mill of the Kimberly Clark Corp. where the independent union is again being challenged.

Annual Elections
In recent years there have been annual elections at KC's Niagara operation, the last one involving the independent and two other unions.

On Tuesday, May 21 a trial is set at Oshkosh involving the S.N.C. Manufacturing Co.

Hot in New York City
NEW YORK (AP) — New York City had the warmest April 13 in its history Saturday—a temperature of 82 degrees at 2:30 p.m., breaking the record of 81 for the date set in 1945.

Switch for Appleton Passenger Schedules Realigned by C&NW

A shift in operation by one daily northbound Chicago and North Western Railway Co. train and a 24-minute time difference in another daily commuter south were announced today by the railway's Appleton ticket agent Louis Wierichs.

Wierichs said that as of May 6, No. 216, a bi-level daily will leave Appleton at 5:16 p.m., arriving in Milwaukee at 7:40 and Chicago, 9:30 p.m. The train formerly left here daily at 4:52 p.m.

The ticket agent said that No. 153, which is now operating northbound to and beyond Green Bay via the Lake Michigan shoreline, will be shifted to Green Bay and beyond, via Fond du Lac and Appleton, in lieu of train No. 149 which presently operates via Fond du Lac and terminates at Green Bay.

Discontinued North
Beginning May 6, No. 153 will leave Appleton at 3:38 p.m. and will arrive in Green Bay at 4:15. Train No. 149 presently leaves Appleton at 12:30 p.m. daily but it will be discontinued north of Milwaukee on May 6, said Wierichs.

Late last week the railroad company announced the discontinuance of trains it has been operating on an experimental and temporary basis between Green Bay and Chicago and at the same time made the adjustments to strengthen its remaining regular intercity passenger service between the two cities.

Larry S. Provo, president of the railroad, explained that the experimental routes, inaugurated in 1963 and 1964 to test public demand, have not been successful.

He said that in 1967, the trains operated at a loss of more than $225,000. The company's passenger train losses in Wisconsin were further heightened last year by the loss of $120,000 in annual revenues by Post Office Department discontinuance of mail car service.

Other changes involve No. 239, a Sunday only train presently operating from Milwaukee to Green Bay via Fond du Lac and Appleton. It will be shifted to operate to Green Bay via Port Washington, Sheboygan and Manitowoc, providing two trains in each direction on Sundays and holidays through shore line cities.

On May 6, No. 239 will leave Milwaukee at 11:15 p.m. and will arrive in Sheboygan at 12:28, Manitowoc, 1:02 and Green Bay at 1:40 p.m.

Wierichs explained that the other train schedules now in effect here will remain the same. Train No. 209, a bi-level daily, will leave Appleton at 8:49 p.m. and will arrive in Green Bay at 9:25. Daily train No. 206 will leave here at 6:35 a.m. and will arrive in Milwaukee at 8:48, and Chicago, 10:35 a.m.

Revenues from all intercity passenger trains, the majority of which operate between Chicago and Wisconsin cities, Provo said, totaled $3,269,000, a decrease of $245,000 under 1966, while operating expenses in 1967 increased $339,000 over 1966.

Provo said the road's loss from operation of intercity passenger trains last year was $4,000,000, up 20 per cent from the prior year.

Soviet Aid in Asia to be Reviewed

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin flies to Pakistan Wednesday for a brief, long-delayed visit that reopens the vexed problem of Soviet weapons in south Asia.

Kosygin also will discuss growing Soviet-Pakistani economic relations with President Mohammed Ayub Khan during his visit to Rawalpindi, Lahore and Karachi. Kosygin's visit will return two visits to the Soviet Union by Ayub Khan, in 1965 and 1967, and follows up Kosygin's six-day visit to India last January.

When Ayub Khan was in Moscow six months ago, he sought to have the Soviet Union curtail its military aid to India, a neighbor that Pakistan has fought in the past and regards as a potential future enemy. This aid includes supersonic jet fighters, antiaircraft missiles and submarines.

Soviet leaders told Ayub Khan, however, they felt India Pakistan.

That meant continued Soviet arms aid for India. Pakistan fears they are more likely to be used against it than China. Pakistan is particularly worried about Soviet submarines being built by the Soviet Union which India might use to cut the only surface links between widely separated East and West Pakistan.

Soviet leaders also apparently rebuffed Pakistani efforts to get Soviet weapons, needed since U.S. arms supplies were curtailed in 1965. Pakistan began inquiring about Soviet weapons in June 1966, without much encouragement.

Ayub Khan was told last September, the official sources said, that any agreement with Pakistan must be "in broad daylight"—meaning no secret arms deals. The Kremlin has too much invested in friendship with India to risk by arming India Pakistan.

Nevertheless, the Soviet Union has in recent years modified its position of all-out support for India in order to woo Pakistan away from Western alliances and to counter the strong Pakistani flirtation with Communist China.

Economic discussions during Kosygin's visit to Pakistan will follow an agreement here last September that Soviet economic and technical aid would be extended to the 1970-75 economic development plan. Details remain to be worked out.

Soviet economic aid to Pakistan began on a small scale in 1961, five years after massive Soviet aid to India began.

Your Money's Worth
Medical Insurance
Must be Broadened

BY SYLVIA PORTER
A record 163,000,000 Americans now are covered by some form of private health insurance, the Health Insurance Institute has just reported. This is 31,000,000 more than were covered as recently as 1960.

Porter
Last year we, the insured, received a peak $11 billion in private health insurance benefits, almost double 1960's $5.7 billion. This is in addition to the billions in benefits paid out under the Medicare-Medicaid program.

Today, unprecedented numbers of us are covered by group health insurance plans with employers paying in full the costs of coverage of nearly two-thirds.

Are we, then, reaching a point where we, as a nation, can sit back and relax despite skyrocketing doctor and hospital bills? Emphatically no.

One-Third of Bill
Private health insurance today pays only one-third of our total medical bill. One in five Americans is not covered by any group health insurance policy and more than 37 million have no private health insurance at all. Most of these are Americans who need such coverage the most, employees of small businesses, farm laborers, household helpers, the unemployed.

Huge gaps still exist in the types of services paid for by most health insurance policies. Usually excluded are costly rehabilitation after an accident or a stroke, maternity and new baby care, eye care, private nurses, nursing home care. Mental health services also are severely limited.

Only a fraction of us, 61,000,000, are protected against catastrophic illness through major medical insurance. The typical health insurance policy covers hospital stays of no longer than two to three months. The maximum benefit provided by most health insurance policies for hospitalization is way below actual daily charges now.

Excluded Benefits

There also are major gaps in Medicare insurance for the nation's elderly. Medicare provides no benefits for dentistry, hearing aids, eyeglasses, out-of-hospital drugs which easily can cost $10-$20 or more a month for an elderly individual. Nor does Medicare adequately protect the elderly American against the phenomenal cost of prolonged physical or mental illness.

To narrow the gap, compulsory health insurance is being considered, like compulsory auto insurance, in many states. The New York State legislature has been seriously debating a plan covering full hospitalization, outpatient and maternity costs, with insurance premiums shared by employer and employee.

More Incentives

The private health insurance industry also is looking for ways to fill the gaps. Among the ideas are higher benefit levels, extended coverage, whole new pools for the poor and "high risks," a much larger proportion of non-cancellable insurance, more incentives to individuals for preventive care and more incentives to hospitals and doctors to find less costly ways to deliver health care.

As a goal, says Wilbur Cohen, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, "health insurance should be covering at least 90 per cent of all consumer expenditures for health care." Unless the private health insurance industry dramatically and drastically reduces the number of gaps in this coverage, Cohen warns, Washington will surely be called upon to do the job. ## Two Calumet Crashes Kill Supervisor, Girl

Raymond Rusch
Was on County Board 10 Years

CHILTON — A 10-year veteran of the Calumet County Board and a rural Hilbert teen-aged girl were killed Monday evening in separate highway accidents in Calumet county.

Dead are:
Raymond Rusch, 60, route 4, Chilton, and Cheryl Ann Weber, 15, route 2, Hilbert.

Rusch, the Town of Rantoul chairman, was involved in a collision with a car driven by Wayne A. Miller, 18, route 1, Chilton, at 7:40 p.m. at the intersection of County Trunk E and Irish Road about four miles northeast of Chilton.

The cause of the accident remains under investigation by county traffic police. They said Rusch was apparently driving west on E and Miller north on Irish Road when the crash occurred.

Thrown From Car

Rusch was thrown from the vehicle and was pronounced dead at the scene of multiple fractures and internal injuries, according to County Coroner Leroy Hughes. Police indicated Rusch was struck by the Miller auto after being thrown from his car.

Miller was trapped in the twisted wreckage of his car for 45 minutes. He is in satisfactory condition at Calumet Memorial Hospital with head injuries.

Rusch was chairman of the county board's Protection of Persons and Property Committee, and was owner and operator of Potter Feed Mill in Potter. He was active with the Potter Community Association. The Weber girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Weber, was a passenger in a car driven by her 16-year-old brother, Allan. She was killed when the auto went out of control on a gravel road and overturned. The accident occurred at 6 p.m. on a town road three miles northeast of Stockbridge. Hughes said the girl was thrown from the car and the vehicle rolled on top of her.

She suffered multiple head, chest and back injuries. Her brother sustained minor lacerations and was not hospitalized.

Class Secretary

Cheryl was secretary of the freshman class and a junior varsity cheerleader at Stockbridge High School.

Cheryl was born April 4, 1953, in Appleton and resided at route 2, Hilbert, most of her life. She was a member of Stockbridge Methodist Church.

Survivors include her parents, five brothers and maternal and paternal grandparents.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Methodist church.

Telephone Worker Strike Is 'Inevitable'

Little Immediate Effects Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a miracle can avert a nationwide strike of some 200,000 telephone workers next Thursday, says President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers.

After a seven-hour meeting with the union's executive board Monday, Beirne said:

"The board is in full agreement that the strike appears inevitable at this point and that our position must be to press hard and unceasingly for the substantial general (wage) increase that our members both need and deserve."

Some 8,000 members of another union, the AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, are already on strike against the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. and 14,000 members of Beirne's union are respecting the picket lines and refusing to work.

The New Jersey telephone company said supervisory personnel stayed on the job and there was no interruption of service to its 2.2 million customers when the strike began Monday.

Beirne conceded that a strike by his members would also have little immediate impact on most customers, except for long distance calls and other service requiring an operator, because of the highly automated nature of the nation's telephone system.

"The $30 billion computer they call the Bell Telephone System is just about the most spectacular achievement in the entire world of automation—without the skills of our members who repair it and keep it running, that computer will eventually become an enormous pile of junk," he said.

A 3 p.m. Thursday deadline for the strike would involve 23,000 telephone installers, whom the union is using to try to set a new wage pattern. They are the highest paid, averaging $3.27 an hour compared with an average of $2.79 for all telephone workers.

A strike by the installers would halt work on putting in new telephone equipment around the nation. They are employees of the Western Electric Co., the manufacturing subsidiary of Bell.

Also involved would be Bell System workers in Ohio, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Michigan, Idaho, Indiana, northern California, Nevada, Washington state and Washington, D.C.

Other Bell System contracts around the nation expire later in April and May, and the strike eventually could embrace all states except Hawaii and Alaska. The executive board of the Communications Workers has already authorized approval of any later strike votes by Bell System units of the union.

Beirne said rapidly rising living costs, and predictions of even further price increases, give union members their strongest case in years for "catch-up wage increases."

Hanoi Names Pair as Likely Envoys in Talks

President Again Presses Efforts

HONOLULU (AP) — President Johnson, pressing Hanoi for an early and serious response to Vietnam peace efforts, is also bearing down on military problems in conferences at the U.S. Pacific command post.

Johnson's schedule today centered on a visit to the hilltop headquarters of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, the Pacific commander in chief who will retire in July. The President said he wanted to talk about the military situation in Vietnam with Sharp and his designated successor, Adm. John S. McCain.

The President gave North Vietnam a new peace prod Monday, soon after arriving in Honolulu.

Reviews Efforts

As friends and critics vied for attention with shouts, chants and placards—the friends clearly were more numerous—Johnson reviewed peace efforts in an address from the steps of Iolani Palace, seat of the Hawaiian government. These efforts focus at this stage on finding a mutually acceptable preliminary meeting site.

Declaring "precious time is being lost," Johnson said:

"For us, this is not a propaganda exercise. We have sent serious and considered messages aimed at bringing about the earliest possible contact."

"What is needed today is an equally serious reply, reacting to our proposals for neutral sites or offering additional suggestions of neutral capitals where both of us have representatives and communications."

'Lack of Good Will'

Several hours after Johnson spoke the official North Vietnamese Communist newspaper Nhan Dan said the United States showed "lack of good will" in turning down two sites Hanoi has proposed, Warsaw and Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

A Nhan Dan article broadcast from Hanoi flung back in the President's face his offer in the past to send U.S. negotiators anywhere at any time for talks. "This statement is big-sounding and allows no misunderstanding," the article said. "Yet, after making many such statements the Johnson administration now changes tune."

Johnson got a generally

friendly welcome to the palm-studded 50th state. Thousands of people saw him as his first organized motorcade in about six months took him more than 15 miles from the airport to a luxurious temporary White House on the Pacific shores.

Twin Paths to Peace

While here, Johnson said, he would discuss what he termed the twin paths to peace with the top military command and, on Wednesday, with President Chung Hee Park of South Korea, a somewhat restive ally concerned about American steadfastness in the Pacific area.

Johnson said he would talk about "our diplomatic initiative in seeking talks with North Vietnam" and the readiness of allied forces "to meet every challenge on the battlefield of South Vietnam."

Flying to Hawaii with him

was Cyrus R. Vance, former deputy secretary of defense who has been assigned as military adviser to participate in any preliminary peace talks with Hanoi.

Park was flying in from Seoul tonight.

Johnson is expected to remain in Hawaii until Thursday. He is living about 10 miles outside the city at the seaside estate of the widow of the late millionaire industrialist Henry J. Kaiser.

Top Man Is Experienced In Diplomacy

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnam announced two high-level appointments today, arousing speculation in Saigon that they would be Hanoi's representatives at peace talks with the United States.

Hanoi broadcast the announcement that Xuan Thuy had been appointed a government minister and that Tran Quang Huy had been named chairman of the cultural and educational board of the premier's office.

Foreign Minister

Thuy, 55, also known as Nguyen Xuan Thuy, was foreign minister of North Vietnam from 1963 to 1965 and more recently has been a member of the Communist Party central committee secretariat and head of the central committee's foreign relations department.

Thuy has wide diplomatic experience and has made many trips abroad. He was deputy chairman of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Geneva conference on Laos in 1961 and attended the 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist Party that year along with President Ho Chi Minh and Le Duan, first secretary of the North Vietnamese party.

Thuy also has attended meetings of left-wing peace organizations in Peking, Moscow, Cairo, Rangoon and Stockholm.

Since 1956 Thuy has been secretary-general of North Vietnamese Front, whose main activity is propaganda for reunification of North and South Vietnam.

Huy, 46, has been deputy director of the central committee's propaganda and education agitprop-committee, also known as the propaganda indoctrination department, and was an alternate member of the central committee.

He was a member of a North Vietnamese delegation that visited France, Romania and the Soviet Union in September, 1965, but nothing else is known about him in Saigon.

South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Do said today his government is proposing that the Vietnamese allies hold a summit meeting before any peace negotiations begin.

Do said he had contacted representatives of the other six nations in Saigon, but the governments had not yet replied.

Russian Space Linkup First Big Step Forward

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Western space experts believe the latest linkup of two Russian satellites has provided the Soviets with technical knowledge to move forward with two programs: to send men to the moon and to build a manned space station for military purposes.

The next step, expected soon, should be space dockings involving manned ships—a feat accomplished by America's Gemini astronauts as early as March 1966.

Plans Upset

It is believed the Soyuz 1 flight last April was to have been the first Soviet space linkup. But the plans were upset when the spacecraft developed control and parachute problems that killed the cosmonaut pilot, Vladimir M. Komarov.

While the Soyuz ship was being redesigned, the Soviets used the unmanned Cosmos 186 and 188 flights last October to gain their initial docking experience. They duplicated the exercise Monday with Cosmos 212 and 213.

The repeat may have been necessary because of problems which cropped up on the October test. American specialists said the Russian radar on the main satellite (186) lacked the long-range precision of that on the Gemini craft.

They noted that Cosmos 187, originally intended for the docking, was too far off course, necessitating the launching of 188. The latter achieved an orbit just 15 miles behind its space partner.

The Russians said Monday's flight involved "refinement of new systems," which could indicate improved radar.

Gemini pilots, who achieved more than a dozen dockings on four flights, often started out several hundred miles behind their Agena target satellites and in different orbits, using sophisticated radar systems to pursue their prey.

U.S. Capability

Edward Welch, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said after the first Soviet linkup that the United States long has had the capability of docking unmanned satellites, but that this was not necessary because the technique was proved in the Gemini program.

The paths of the Russian satellites involved in the linkups indicate they are preparatory flights for a man-to-the-moon mission. All were on courses ranging between 51.7 degrees north and 51.7 degrees south of the equator—which for Russia's launching purposes is an ideal course for starting for the moon.

The Soviets have said their man-to-the-moon plan involves first assembling a large space station in earth orbit, using it as a launch pad for lunar journeys. This would involve five or six launchings and hookups. If most of these could be achieved with unmanned launchings, the price tag would be considerably cheaper and the risk of life reduced.

Once the base is assembled, a cosmonaut crew would rocket up to it, check it out, refuel, and head for the moon. It could also be a stopover on the way home.

The multi-launch technique is necessary because the Soviets do not have a rocket with the strength of America's Saturn 5 super rocket.

Brute Force

The United States plans to use the brute force of the Saturn 5—at least twice as powerful as anything yet flown by the Russians—to send three men to the moon with a single launch.

Present U.S. plans call for the first astronauts to hopefully be on the moon late next year. The general feeling in the West is that the Soviets can't do it before 1970.

However, there are indications the Russians may attempt a circumlunar flight late this year or early next—sending a manned craft once around the moon's backside and returning it to earth.

The linkups also are steps toward a long-stated Soviet goal

Brooke to Enter Antiriot Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation will be introduced in the Senate this week aimed at a start on enactment of White House riot commission's recommendations that would cost an estimated $350 billion over a decade.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., a commission member, plans to introduce bills Wednesday to make a limited, low-cost start on the recommendations, including a congressional study of a plan for a guaranteed annual income.

He also will propose federal incentives to eliminate racial imbalance in schools and the denial of federal aid to school districts that decline to abolish such imbalance.

History, Holidays Might be Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around the House Judiciary Committee they call it the Columbus Day caper and if it succeeds, four national holidays will provide three-day weekends each year.

A bill calling for the observance of Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Veterans Day and Columbus Day on Mondays has been approved by the committee. But don't pack that weekend bag yet.

A favorite of the business community, which thinks it would make for more efficient work and production schedules and less absenteeism—and strongly backed by the travel agencies and airlines—the bill hasn't stirred much enthusiasm among the general public.

And it has aroused surprisingly strong opposition from patriotic societies and veterans organizations with an interest in a specific holiday, and church groups with an interest in Sunday church attendance.

They've expressed fears that regular three-day holidays would lure people into unpatriotic and impious endeavors on those occasions.

Such opposition pretty well scuttled the original Monday holiday bill before the committee last year. When the first session of Congress ended, only Memorial Day remained in a bill that would have also moved Washington's Birthday, Independence Day, Veterans Day and Thanksgiving to Monday.

Discuss Columbus
It was then that Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., chief sponsor of the bill, discovered Christopher Columbus.

For years Americans of Italian descent have cherished the idea of a national holiday commemorating Columbus. And for years Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., a senior judiciary committee member, has introduced bills establishing such a holiday.

Many states observe Oct. 12 as Columbus Day but the bills for a national holiday never got anywhere. They served mainly to stir counter campaigns by Americans of Scandinavian stock for a Leif Ericson Day in honor of the man they are convinced discovered America.

Rather than try to legislate history and reluctant to impose two new holidays on the nation Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., kept the Columbus Day bills well bottled up.

They one day McClory looked at Rodino. Rodino looked at McClory. And a new bill was born.

Appleton Plans Legal Action for School Levy

Finance Committee Directs Move Against Grand Chute

Legal action will be taken against the Town of Grand Chute within 24 hours to recover the balance of the town's public school tax levy on the basis of action taken by the council's finance committee Monday night.

The committee recommended that City Atty. David Geenen be authorized to commence legal action to compel the town to immediately pay $741,000 to the city treasurer "with interest and penalty if any".

The levy, which Grand Chute was required by state law to pay by March 15, was $990,000.

Must Pay
City treasurer Ray Feuerstein said under statute with which he was required to comply, the Town of Grand Chute was bonded and obligated to make the disbursement in full by mid-March.

It was disclosed the town treasurer had been contacted more than a week ago to find out why the money had not been paid into the school district treasury by the deadline.

City officials were reportedly informed the money would be available.

However, when a check in the amount of only $250,000 was received Monday morning it triggered immediate action.

Invested Money
The town, according to city officials, apparently took a considerable amount of the money earmarked for paying its share of the tax levy and deposited it in a local bank to earn interest.

City officials took a dim view of the town attempting to pay its school district obligation on an installment basis, pointing out there was no such thing.

And they also were perturbed at the idea of the town reportedly earning interest on the money when it should have been mailed to the school district treasury a month ago.

Questions Interest
Thomas A. Thorson, Grand Chute town chairman, said Monday morning the matter of making the full school payment was discussed by town officials and declared, "We came to the conclusion not to pay them (the city district) all at once".

Thorson said although the city was putting interest from school bond issues back into the school district fund, he claimed it is not doing so with regard to all school tax levies raised plus state and federal funds the board of education has been receiving.

"We want interest to go into a separate account to offset next year's school levy," Thorson said.

He claimed the interest from the school levy and federal and state grants was going into the city's general fund.

(When bonds are sold and grant money received it is a common practice to invest it until the principal has to be used to pay obligations. Considerable money is accrued from interest on short-term investments, usually with banks or government securities.)

Thorson gave the impression that when all interest income was pro-rated, Grand Chute would pay the remainder of its school levy for the year. But in the meantime, the town will earn interest on the money for itself.

Teen-Age Driver Cited Following Accident

KAUKAUNA — About $350 damage resulted and one driver issued a citation for failure to yield right of way following a two-car accident at Division and Lawe streets about 7:40 p.m. Saturday.

According to police, Dale Van Vreede, 17, 612 W. Ninth St., had stopped for an arterial on Division Street and pulled into traffic into the path of a car being driven north on Lawe Street by Howard Hoelt, 51, 417 Sixth St. Van Vreede was issued the citation.

An Illinois Driver and his girl companion took an unexpected morning plunge at 2 a.m. Sunday when their car went off the end of a town road north of Manawa and into School Section Lake. It sank in 20 feet of water. John F. Feustel, 24, Oak Lawn, Ill., escaped from the sinking car through a window and pulled the girl through the same window. Neither was injured. Searchers are shown maneuvering in a boat trying to locate the car. Feustel stands and watches as his car emerges from the lake, pulled by a wrecking crew after attaching grappling hooks while it was under water. Finally high, but not very dry on the shore, water pours from car. (Post-Crescent Photos by John Sawall)

Bishop Wycislo Greets Diocese

'I Want to be With You in Mutual Trust and Concern'

Special to The Post-Crescent

GREEN BAY — "My beloved flock of Green Bay, I want to be a bishop with a wide vision of things in this diocese; I want to draw on the knowledge and talents of all who are willing to work with me."

With these words the eighth bishop of the Green Bay See accepted his official robe of leadership this morning at St. Francis Xavier Cathedral, Green Bay.

The Most Rev. Aloisius Wycislo, who arrived here Monday, extended his hand to receive the crozier, the pastoral staff in a simple but colorful ceremony and became the shepherd of a flock of more than 350,000 Catholics in the diocese.

First Family
After he received the shepherd's staff, the symbol of his authority, the new prelate appropriately said in his first homily here, "I am now your new bishop — the pastor of my people; pastor not in the connotation of superiority, and you in the connotation of dependency, but a shepherd who is with the flock."

"As shepherd, I want to be with you in mutual trust and concern."

In the short, moving sermon of acceptance, the new bishop, who had been auxiliary bishop of Chicago for eight years, reminisced, about the words said to him when he received his first crozier.

"I was told: Take this staff of the shepherd's office: that you may show zeal, tempered with mercy, in the correction of wrong-doing. Pass judgment without anger and tend gently the growth of virtue in the souls of your flock, without neglecting the calm reproof of vice."

That very same staff the apostolic delegate put into his hand this morning at the throne. "And then the cardinal put this ring (the bishop's ring) on my finger and said: take this ring, token of the pledged word; yours it is, endowed with unshakable fidelity, to preserve and guard in unblemished honor God's bride, Holy Church," Bishop Wycislo remembered.

Your Bishop
"Here I am your bishop. Am I your Church? It will take time to answer that question. Here I am, your chief priest, he who will preside at your altars. Will I be the whole of your life? What of the functions of my office? What is my place in this community?" the leader asked, more of himself than his new flock.

During the sermon he also added a note to the many who had hoped that they could have a voice in the selection of a new bishop.

"I am not insensitive to your desires," Bishop Wycislo said.

Appleton Man Becomes Aide In State Office

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — James R. Wise, field audit supervisor for the state Department of Revenue in the Appleton district since 1964, Monday was appointed special assistant to Secretary of Revenue James R. Morgan.

Wise, whose appointment is effective immediately, lives with his wife and four children at 1024 N. Leminwah St., Appleton.

He was selected to take part in the department's continuing training program, which places department staff personnel on a temporary basis in positions and training activities designed to develop management potential.

Before coming to the Appleton office, Wise served as a field auditor in Manitowoc. Prior to that appointment he had been an office auditor in the Appleton district since 1952.

Wise graduated from Eau Claire Memorial High School in 1945.

Woman Dragged Through Window

Pair Escapes Car Sinking in Lake

WAUPACA — An Illinois man and an Oshkosh woman escaped injury early Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding ran off the end of a town road and sank in 20 feet of water of School Section Lake, five miles north of Manawa.

John F. Feustel, 24, Oak Lawn, Ill., a former Waupaca County resident, told Capt. John F. Penney, county traffic patrol, it was foggy and he thought he was on a through road. There are no warning signs near where the road runs into the lake.

When Feustel realized the car was in the lake he rolled down the driver's side window, crawled out and as the car was sinking he grabbed the girl by the coat and pulled her through the window and they swam to shore. Feustel identified the girl as 21 year old Allison Fournier, 714 A. Jackson St., Oshkosh.

Feustel, who is a skin diver, returned to the lake Monday with two diving companions. They located the 1964 model car approximately 100 feet from shore in about 20 feet of water. A cable was attached to the rear of the car and it was pulled from the water by a wrecker.

Vandals Hit 3 Mailboxes At Manawa

MANAWA — Mailbox vandals have struck again in the Manawa area.

The Waupaca County Sheriff's office was notified that three mail boxes southwest of here were smashed this weekend. This is the third time in recent weeks that mailboxes in and around Manawa have been hit by vandals.

Waupaca County and Manawa police who are investigating the incidents say the boxes are not being hit by a car. Some type of sharp object is being used, police said.

Steiger Plays Politics With Elderly: Race

FOND DU LAC — "Congressman Wm. Steiger is playing politics with our senior citizens," John Race, Democratic candidate for Congress, told members of Machinist Lodge No. 1947 at the Labor Temple in Fond du Lac Saturday night.

Race said, "Freshman Congressman Steiger has planned several meetings in the Sixth Congressional District, including the cities of Oshkosh and Sheboygan to promote senior citizen centers for the elderly. Mr. Steiger is aware that there are no funds available to open new centers in Wisconsin, that appropriations were trimmed slightly last year and that Congress is in no mood to increase budgets this year."

"This being an election year," Race pointed out, "The congressman will go to no ends to try and win votes. If Congressman Steiger is really sincere, he could have introduced legislation to increase the budget which would allow more cities to open new centers for our older Americans."

School Entered, Ink Splashed on Doors and Walls; Money Stolen

KAUKAUNA — About $2 was reported stolen from a dispensing machine and ink was thrown against doors and walls following a break-in at St. Mary Catholic School, 112 W. Eighth St., sometime Saturday night.

Entry into the building was gained through a gym window. The ink, which was splashed along corridors in the school, was taken from a supply room. Police found one set of foot-prints in the spilled ink.

Support Promised Keshena Project

Nelson, Byrnes Give Backing to $1 Million Recreation Grant

A U.S. senator and congressman have thrown their support behind a recent request for $1 million Economic Development Administration (EDA) funds for the proposed recreation complex at Keshena.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, have assured their support and cooperation for this project.

This was learned recently in letters to William E. Morris, executive director of the Northeast Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. The planning commission prepared the applications for the two grants.

Federal Funds
The grants represent 80 percent of the project's cost. The Town of Menominee has applied for $625,000 in EDA funds directly from the agency and $375,000 of the $2.5 million supplementary EDA funds recently earmarked for distribution through the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission (UGLRC).

The project — called the Menominee Visitor Destination — is on a 94-acre plot west of Keshena and will include $2 million in private construction after the other facilities are developed with federal funds. The grants would be used for buildings in the complex, road surfacing and sewer and water service.

250 Jobs
It is expected to create 250 year-around jobs. Byrnes said he was "particularly interested in those projects that will aid in the economic development of the state."

He said he would contact 7th Dist. Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Marshfield, in whose district the proposed project lies, and offer any "help I can render."

Nelson wrote Morris: "Please be assured of my cooperation and support for this project."

Morris said last week he is very optimistic about receiving the money because "the project fits all EDA criteria" and EDA officials have encouraged the application.

Awards Given to College Students

OSHKOSH — Cash prizes were given to three chemistry students from area colleges at the annual awards meeting of the northeast Wisconsin section of the American Chemical Society Tuesday night at the Halsey Science Center, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

The students were chosen by the chemistry faculties of their colleges as the outstanding senior chemistry majors.

They are Peter G. Cartier of Lawrence University, Robert C. Paulick and Gene E. Brown of St. Norbert College, and Jay Lee Fierke and Joseph Prohaska, of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Cartier received $50 and the other four who tied for the award at their schools, $25 each.

Foot Mangled, Youth Crawls On Hands and Knees for Help

Ervin E. Vosters, route 4, is in Appleton Memorial Hospital with a serious ankle injury and abrasions and contusions to his face and head. He was taken to the hospital by Lindy's Ambulance about 2 a.m. today, approximately an hour after the accident on Holland Road, at the U.S. 41 overpass, a mile north of Little Chute.

Outagamie County police said that Vosters was northbound on Holland Road when his auto struck the overhead railing base and overturned.

It was learned that the youth waited a short time for help, and when no cars passed, he crawled 500 feet to a nearby house, from where the ambulance was summoned. Police said there was about $1,000 damage to his 1963 auto.

Cottages Debated by Commission

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The State Building Commission Monday voted to take three steps aimed at expanding the Grand Army Home for Veterans at King, Waupaca County, despite objections from a commission member that the plans were based on a long-range building program that has become "outdated."

Assemblyman Harvey Gee, R-Wisconsin Rapids, charged that the proposals, based on a building plan dating six years, not only had been outdated but was in part working in direct opposition to the wishes of the residents of the faculty.

The commission backed the proposals of John Moses, director of the Department of Veterans Affairs, after telling Gee that the actions did not constitute final approval of the steps and that the objections of the residents were not directly involved in the decisions facing the state building agency.

Moses had asked the commission to approve three steps growing out of the planned expansion of the institution based on a long-range plans calling for an eventual enrollment of 1,500 residents.

Preliminary Plans

The first two steps, finally approved by the commission, allocate $16,000 from department funds for the preparation of preliminary plans for an activities building at the home. They also would update early designs dating from 1964, early in the planning stages for the building.

The third proposal, which was also approved by the group following an hour of debate, allocates an unspecified amount of funds for the securing of appraisals and options on 9.3 acres of land adjacent to the home for the construction of 48 cottages.

The cottages would supply duplex and multiple housing for married couples at the home.

Eventually replaced under that long-range plan would be 39 cottages now being used at the home, some of which are more than 70 years old. All but six of these units are designed for single occupancy.

Gee protested that studies being conducted by legislative agencies, and changes in Social Security laws since the preparation of the long-range plan, have outdated that master program and that the three suggestions from Moses should be deferred for further study.

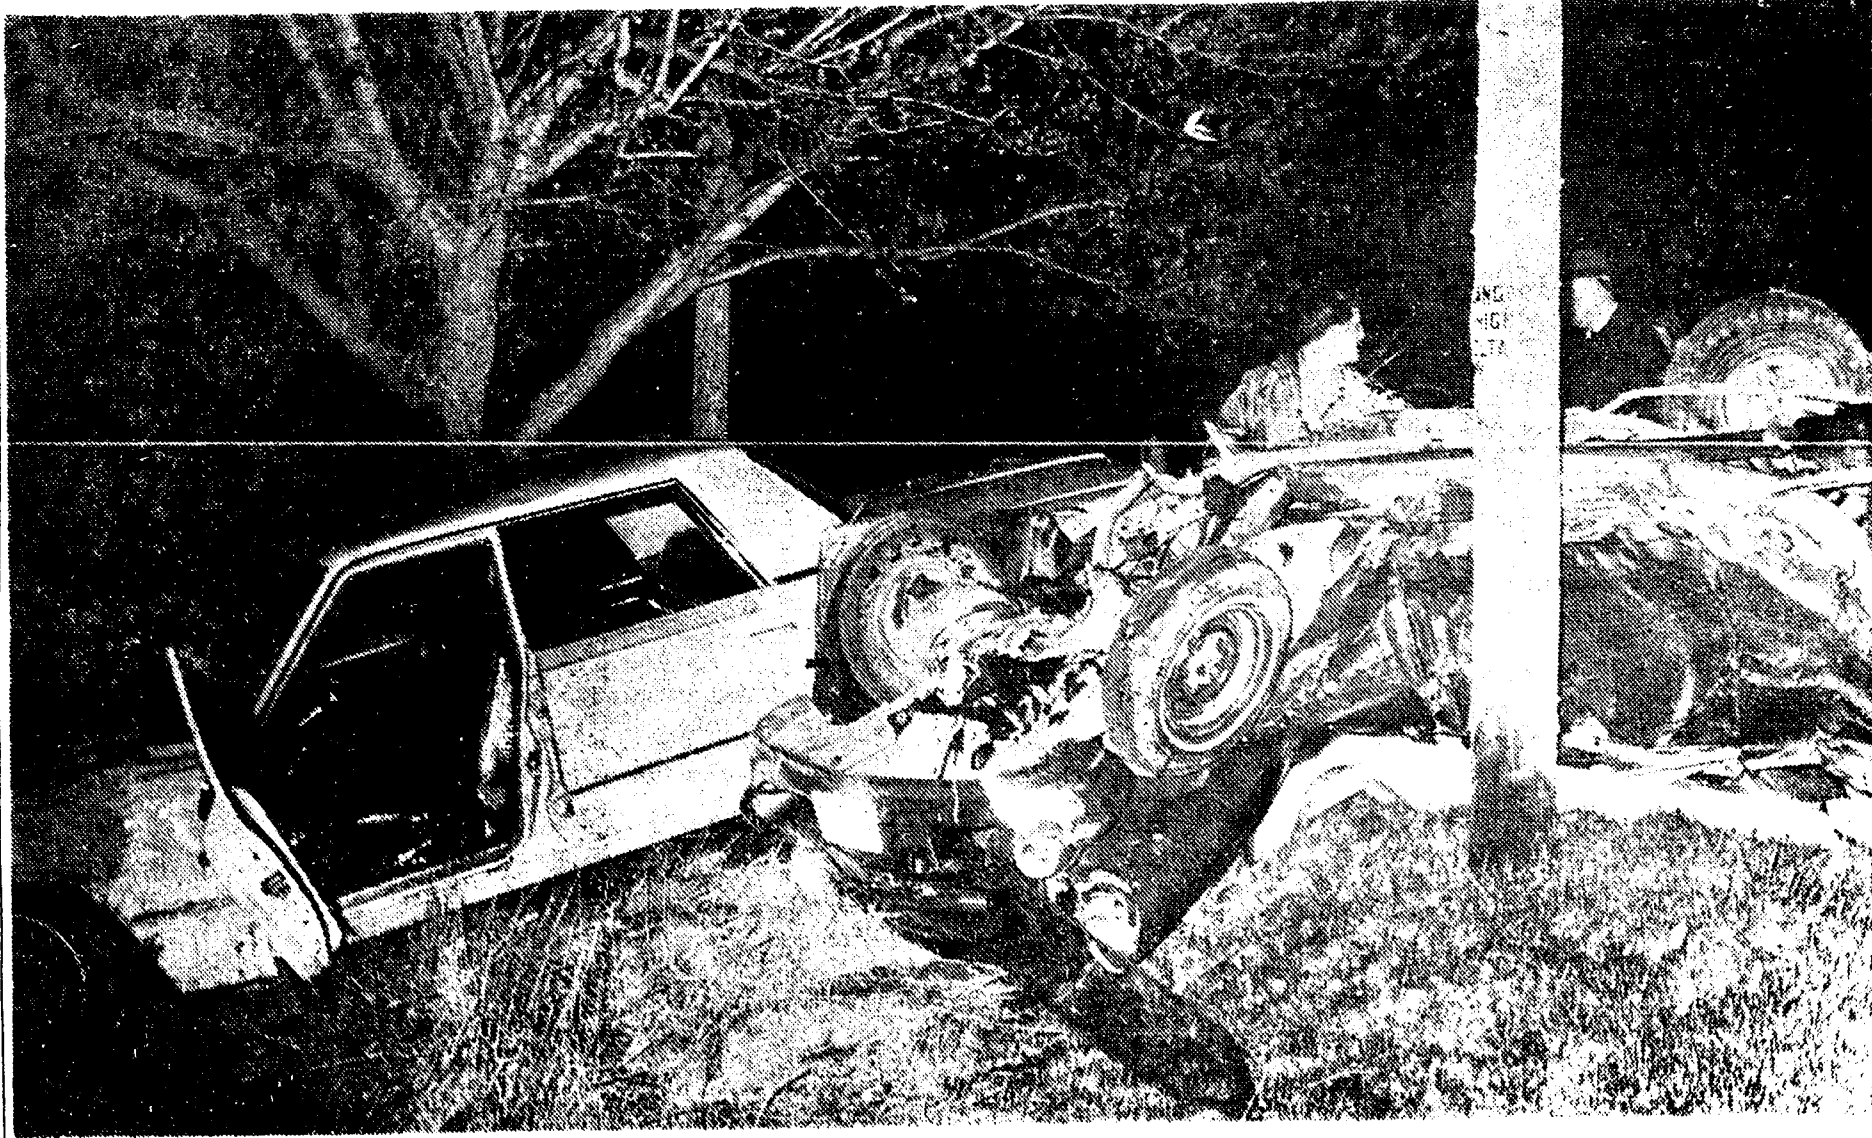

Currently under way are studies by an interim veterans' affairs committee of the 1967 legislature and of the legislative committee to visit state institutions, said Gee, which could alter the future of the Waupaca County facility.

Immediate Vicinity

Studies to date have shown that most of the residents of the home, which is open to veterans, their wives and mothers upon retirement, are drawn from the immediate vicinity of the facility, he said.

State policy may point toward the changing of long-range projections for the King home and the construction of a new facility in southeastern Wisconsin.

Both Kloes and Mares offered their full cooperation to Esler in carrying out the programs of the county over the next two years.

Boston Teachers Want Protection

BOSTON (AP) — Some 70 teachers at the city's Jeremiah E. Burke High School for girls are threatening not to return to school next Monday unless they are afforded police protection.

The school is in the predominantly Negro section of Roxbury. A spokesman for the teachers said a gang of young toughs invaded the school the day after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated and roamed corridors, smashed typewriters and business machines, squirted fire extinguishers and harassed teachers and students for two hours.

The school has been closed since for repairs and the Easter week school holiday.

mour, Dist. 44, unanimously was re-elected board vice-chairman. He had no opposition.

All five members of the county highway committee also were re-elected without opposition. They are Supvs. Ervin Conradt, Shiocton, Dist. 46; P. J. Heenan, Appleton, Dist. 10; I. A. Grunwaldt, Black Creek, Dist. 43; Daniel Williams, Kimberly, Dist. 49, and George Kroes, rural Kaukauna, Dist. 36. Supervisors also were considering the abolition of the purchasing and general accounts committee, and the creation of a new standing zoning committee. If the proposal is approved, duties of the purchasing and general accounts committee would be absorbed by the executive committee.

Still slated for action today were the election of members to the executive committee and the election of a committee on committees to select membership on the other standing committees.

'The Responsibility Is Ours'

Bishop Endears Himself to Welcoming Throng at Airport

BY MALJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

GREEN BAY — A warm welcome was extended Monday at the Austin Straubel airport to a man who today received the shepherd's staff as a symbol of leadership of the more than 350,000 Catholics in the Green Bay Diocese.

The Most Rev. Aloysius J. Wycislo, eighth bishop of the diocese, received applause from the crowd of laymen, nuns and priests, as he alighted from his plane Monday morning.

Also present for the short ceremony were Green Bay's Mayor Donald Tillemann and Vince Lombardi, general manager of the Green Bay Packers, who presented the bishop with season tickets to the games with the words, "I've heard up to now you have been a Bear fan. We hope we can change that."

Bishop Wycislo, not to be outdone by the cordial welcome, added with humor, "This means more to me than the credentials from the Holy Father."

Brief Speech
In a brief speech the tall white-haired prelate told the crowd, "I am really happy about coming to Green Bay — actually, I want to be your bishop; I am glad to be your bishop."

He further endeared the crowd with a statement, "If for a moment I thought the responsibility and work were mine alone, I would take the next plane back to Chicago. The responsibility and work is ours."

Turning to Lombardi with a smile, the new leader added, "I may need some pointers from Mr. Lombardi on how to mix the authority given me as your new chief priest, with the love I would like to see permeate our total relationship."

"I am well aware that I come to Green Bay at an historical turning point in the life of the Church," he said, adding, "but then, my reputation has preceded me so one should be too surprised to have a bishop who took an active part in Vatican II in their midst."

New Openness

Inserting an ecumenical note in his talk, Bishop Wycislo talked of a new openness with the world.

"As we preach, teach and practice this openness, may we at long last experience the reality of a community where, even though we differ in our religious thinking, customs and structures, we are one because we love one another."

Just before he climbed into the auto which was to take him to his new residence in Allouez, he waved to the people and added, "As of this moment, I begin my friendship with all of you, if you will have me as your friend."

The first duty of the new leader today was to present his credentials to the diocesan consultants, thereby formally and officially assuming the authority of his office.

Adding to his welcome today was a resolution from the Green Bay Diocesan Priests' Association, which affirmed "our faithful loyalty to the authority of the Church, to the Holy Father and to the bishop of Green Bay."

"We pledge our full cooperation as we extend to him a warm and heartfelt welcome to the diocese," the organization composed of Bishop Wycislo's official family stated.

where most of the state's population now lives, Gee warned.

All of the present residents of the cottages which will eventually be razed would prefer to remain in the single unit facilities rather than in multiple housing units or dormitory-type structures, he said.

Gee is a member of the legislative visiting committee and has toured the King installation.

State Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, told Gee that the proposal calls only for planning funds, and will not authorize destruction of existing cottages. The proposal is aimed only at the study of the purchases for an additional 93 acres of land for the new cottage additions.

Purchase Study
Moses said that the purchase study is necessary to determine if, by changing the proposed location for the structures, construction costs could be lowered.

The last state building program authorized the construction of six of the units, as does the present building program. But they cannot be constructed until costs can be lowered to what state officials regard as a "reasonable" figure.

The department hopes to construct six of the planned duplex units for $180,000, Moses said. A total of 48 eventually could be located on the site.

Residents cannot form an opinion as to the desirability of the new units until they see some in operation, Moses added. The activities building will contain an auditorium, library, museum, craft and hobby shops.

and other recreational facilities. Gee also objected to the proposal, based on the pending legislative studies, but Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, recommended the planning approval, noting that the state is committed to the development of the King home because of the large amount of state building done there in the past several years.

In other actions the commission.

—Allocated $121,000 of Madison campus funds for the repair of the University of Wisconsin field house roof. The decision marks the first application of a new US policy of absorbing many of the building costs of the school's athletic department, rather than insisting that they be made up out of athletic event receipts.

Tentative Approval

—Gave tentative approval while indicating further study will be made — of an additional $19,760 for a new play field at the Department of Public Instruction School for the Deaf in Delavan, bringing the total project cost to $53,325. The commission first heard at the meeting that the plan calls for the construction of a three hole golf course as a part of the field.

—Postponed indefinitely the purchase of a rooming house and property in Oshkosh which had been offered for sale by its owner to Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. The building site is not needed now, Martin told the subcommittee, and rooming house space for WSU-O students is needed by the school.

—Allocated $16,100 for the planning, and authorized construction of a $541,720 maintenance building at WSU-O.
